CURTAIN TO RISE ON SECOND ACT OF BALKAN WAR

War to Be Resumed at 7 O'Clock Next Monday Evening.

TURKS OFFER COMPROMISE

But This Is Unacceptable and Allies Denounce the Armistice---Some Still Hope for Peace.

London, January 30.—The curtain may rise on the second act of the Balkan war next Monday. The allies denounced the armistice at 7 o'clock tonight, and if events take the prescribed course, the bombardment of Adrianople will be started after an interval of four days.

Indeed, the bombardment has been scheduled for 7 o'clock Monday evening.

Yet, even at this eleventh hour, war is in no wise assured. Only a few hours before the allies proclaimed their momentous decision the Ottoman government presented its reply to the joint note of the powers of January 17.

Never has a diplomatic problem taken such swift and surprising changes as these negotiations for peace. The young Turks who seized the government with shouts of defiance have undergone a marvelous transformation. Instead of drawing the battle line at the question of surrendering Adrianople, they offer a compromise which comes so near meeting the Bulgarian demands that a settlement should not be impossible, and they leave the Aegean islands to the disposition of the powers.

Difference Very Slight.

The difference between what Constantinople is ready to give and what Bulgaria is willing to accept has been reduced to such small proportions that even some of the Balkan delegates believe a compromise may yet be agreed upon. Constantinople now asks simply the retention of that section of Adrianople where the holy shrines are situated. Bulgaria always meant to leave the mosques and shrines to Turkey, and even to confer the right of extra territoriality, thus giving them something of the status of the vatican in Rome. The vital differences between the two nations amount merely to Turkey's demanding the shrines and the sections surrounding them.

The Thracean frontier line, therefore, with the exception of the town of Adrianople practically has been agreed to, as Turkey is ready to leave to the powers the disposition of the land on the right bank of the Maritza river, which conditions, as is known, the allies are satisfied to accept. The question of the Aegean islands also practically has been solved, as the porte is disposed to leave their settlement to the powers.

Powers Fear Grave Complications.

Dr. Daneff, head of the Bulgarian delegation, said with reference to Turkey's reply:

"It is not of a character to form the basis for fresh negotiations." This, however, is simply a public statement, possibly made to exercise more pressure on Constantinople. A majority of the allies apparently trust that a compromise will be reached.

All the powers have urged the allies to do their utmost to prevent the resumption of hostilities because of grave complications that otherwise might arise. Whatever happens, the Greek premier, M. Venizelos, will leave London tomorrow. He will visit friends in the country and expects to depart from England Saturday or Sunday.

M. Novakovitch, head of the Servian delegation, has arranged to go home in a day or two, but will return if the negotiations are resumed. Dr. Daneff will leave early next week.

The ambassadorial conference will meet tomorrow morning to consider the porte's reply.

YOUNG TURK GOVERNMENT BOLD IN ITS REPLY TO THE POWERS

Constantinople, January 30.—In its reply to the joint note of the powers the Young Turk government asserts itself boldly. Apart from proposals to divide Adrianople and a plea for the retention of the Aegean islands, the new government takes advantage of the occasion to press for relief from the fetters of tariff and foreigners' extra territorial rights, under which the Turkes long have chafed.

"The Ottoman government does not hesitate to recognize that the conclusion of peace corresponds with the hopes and interest of all," says the note, "and that it is desirable to put an end as soon as possible to a struggle which it in no way provoked.

"The imperial government has already given undeniable proof of a conciliatory spirit by consenting to immediate sacrifices. Adrianople being an essentially Mussulman town and the second capital in Turkey and therefore indissolubly bound up with the empire, the mere rumor of its cession provoked a sentiment of reprobation throughout the country and aroused such excitement as to bring about the resignation of the last cabinet.

"The Turkish government is willing, as a final proof of its pacific disposition, to place itself in the hands of the powers regarding that part of Adrianople situated on the right bank of the Maritza river. The mosques and historic monuments are on the left bank, and the retention of that section is a necessity which the government cannot fail to take account of without exposing the country to a commotion which might result in the gravest consequences."

The Aegean Islands.

Regarding the Aegean islands, the argument is set forth that those nearest the Dardanelles are indispensable to the defense of the capital while the others, forming an integral part of Asia Minor, are no less indispensable to the security of the Asiatic possess-

CALLED TO REST

MRS. LIVINGSTON MIMS,
Beloved Atlanta woman who died Thursday morning in Boston.

MRS. MIMS DIES; INTERMENT HERE

End Came at Massachusetts Home Near Boston.

For Many Years Her Home Was Center of Atlanta Social Life.

News was received in Atlanta yesterday of the death of Mrs. Livingston Mims, wife of the late Major Mims, former mayor of Atlanta, at Brookline, Mass. a suburb of Boston. She had been ill for some time, and for seven or eight months had rested in her work as a lecturer for the Christian Science church, in the hope of recovery. She was about 72 years old. Dispatches from Boston state that preparations were being made to send the body to Atlanta for burial beside the body of her husband.

Probably no woman who ever lived in Atlanta exerted greater influence on society than Mrs. Livingston Mims. For many years the social life of Atlanta centered around Mayor Mims and his charming wife. He was president of the Capital City club for many years, and as his wife, Mrs. Mims acted as hostess at some of the most brilliant events in the history of Atlanta. The most notable of these was the beautiful ball given to President Cleveland on his visit to this city during his first term. The president and his wife were entertained at that time in the Mims home, which stood on the corner of Peachtree street and Ponce de Leon avenue, on the present site of the Georgian Terrace hotel.

Entertained Many Notables.

This home was acquired by Mr. and Mrs. Mims on their moving to Atlanta from Savannah in the eightfes. Many of the nation's most noted persons have been entertained in this home—such people as Jefferson Davis and his daughter, Miss Winnie; General Joe Johnston, President McKinley; Joseph Jefferson, General Joe Wheeler and many others.

Not only was the Mims home the center of entertainment, but also the artistic and musical center of the city. The first dramatic club of Atlanta was organized there, and among the charter members were Henry Grady, Henry Peeples and Mayor Mims, who discussed and studied Shakesperean plays.

In the Mims home also the first Christian Science gathering was held about eighteen years ago. In this realm of thought, in which she was destined to rise to national eminence, Mrs. Mims was probably the very first Atlanta advocate. She had formerly been an active worker in the Episcopal church and was converted to the new belief through a remarkable cure, as she related many times afterward in her lectures. In her drawing room she gathered a number of Christian Scientists every Sunday, until the organization grew so large that rooms were rented in the Grand building. Mrs. Mims served as "reader" for the Atlanta church for many years and only gave up the position about five years ago, when her work as lecturer demanded her entire time.

Widely Known as Lecturer.

After Mayor Mims' death she began to give more and more of her time to the Christan Science work, and within the past four or five years has traveled all over the United States delivering lectures. She held until the time of her death her position in the

COMMITTEE TAKES BEAVERS' ADVICE

His Recommendations Followed Granting Hotel Permits.

Three Are Denied and Chief Has Run-In With Albian's Attorney.

The Albian hotel, operated by Jake Goldberg at No. 25 1-2 South Pryor street, was attacked by Chief of Police James L. Beavers yesterday afternoon, when Attorney J. A. Goldberg, son of the owner, applied to the police committee for an operating permit.

Chief Beavers told the committee that the hotel was a gaming place. He said that when he was a captain he helped raid the hotel, and that recently a shooting scrape, in which a woman was involved, occurred in the hotel.

"I dare say that nine people out of ten will bear me out that the place should not be permitted to operate," Chief Beavers told the committee.

The rap of the chief caused Attorney Goldberg to criticise the methods of the police. He told the committee that Chief Beavers has placed the hotel under continual vigilance, and in a recent raid a man and woman were arrested.

"When they were taken to the station they proved that they were man and wife, and the case against them was dismissed," Goldberg explained.

Story of Shooting.

Goldberg told the committee that the shooting scrape recalled by Chief Beavers was the result of an attempt of a notorious police character to create a disturbance in the place. He said that the man was shot because he refused to stop cursing in the presence of the young lady clerk.

"The shooting scrape is a fair example of Chief Beavers' suppositions," Goldberg said. "He ought to confine himself to facts. It is not fair for the chief to make a statement unless he knows the facts."

Attorney William Smith corroborated the statement of Goldberg in the essential details. He said that the indictment has never been tried in the superior court.

Chief Beavers replied that when he made the raid on the hotel he found cards and money on the table. He said he did not think Goldberg was convicted.

Alderman James E. Warren, a member of the committee, declared that a client placed in his hands a suit to recover a pin which he lost gaming in the hotel, and that Goldberg was notified to return the pin.

Application Was Denied.

The committee denied the application.

The police committee held a long session. The committee room, adjacent to Mayor Woodward's office, was crowded with near beer saloonists, pool room keepers and boarding house keepers of various types and hues. The committee gave each of the boarding house applicants a fair and impartial hearing, and granted permits to forty.

Those denied were: Albian hotel, 25½ South Pryor; William Strong, 60½ Decatur; Will Roberts, 130½ Decatur.

The committee deferred action on the applications of Dave Williams, 16 Piedmont; L. H. Reid, 90 Decatur; Helen Chapman, 115½ Decatur; W. E. Middlebrooks, 83½ Peachtree; Gate City hotel; Mrs. Cotten, Central and Alabama; Sallie Robinson, 50 Courtland; H. Cunningham, 9 Piedmont; Central hotel, 8 and 10 Trinity, and L. Jennings, 15½ West Mitchell.

The applications were held up to give the owners an opportunity to appear before the committee.

A majority of the applications specified "men only" would be admitted to the houses.

Committee to Inspect.

Chairman Colcord declared that he would ask the committee to make a personal inspection of some of the houses reported by the police as being questionable.

The committee was guided by the recommendations of Chief Beavers in all the applications reported favorably.

The fight on the locker clubs seems to have subsided. Permits were granted to the Metropolitan, Order of Bees and the Central clubs.

The application of the Union Federation club, of 20 Decatur street, was turned down, and the Unity Social club was passed up until the next meeting.

The officers of the Press club appeared before the committee and asked for a permit under the name of the Ben Franklin club. Luther Still, its president, told the committee that the name had been changed. The committee was willing to grant the permit, but the club failed to make its application under the new name to council and will necessarily have to be passed on before the committee can recommend the permit.

Members to Grant Permit.

All the members of the committee appeared favorable towards the issuance of the permit.

The Southern club was given thirty days within which to liquidate its affairs.

The Temple Baptist church through Pastor Flemming, opposed the near beer permit applied for by C. M. Tur-

Greatest Sights of Atlanta Are the Girls, Says Mountaineer, But He Goes Home Alone

Taylor Langley returned home to Gwinnett county with a crick in his neck, after being shown the sights of Atlanta by Charlie Britt. He was looking for a wife—but he didn't get one.

"If I wanted to keep one of these Atlanta girls on Knob Hill," he explained, "I'd have to tie her to the bedpost."

Away up in the verdant hills of Milton county, where peace and tranquillity is broken only by the invasion of revenue officers and the occasional clash of feudal clansmen, and where the sun always beams, even though it be raining in torrents upon the green valleys below, Taylor Langley lived alone—so much alone, in fact, that he pined for a mate to share his cabin on Knob hill.

Although Taylor had never been to a city, nor had so much as ridden on a railway train, his friend, Charlie Britt, had told him wonderful stories of how such things really existed, and that there were houses in Atlanta twenty stories high, and many more incredulous things, but the picture which clung most vividly in Taylor's memory was the marvelous beauty of Atlanta's maidens.

He Travels to Atlanta.

It was not strange, then, that last Wednesday he hitched old Dobbin to the wagon and traveled across country all the way to Atlanta from Gwinnett in search of a wife from Atlanta's fair bevy. But here is cause for wonderment and marveling piled upon amazement—he went back to Knob hill yesterday without the wife, and, furthermore, said he didn't want one of Atlanta's kind.

"If I wanted to keep one of these here Atlanta girls up on Knob hill," he said, "I'd have to tie her to the bedpost. And then she'd be liable to get erway. They couldn't love a feller like me. They want somethin' with a stiff starched shirt and collar and oiled hair and a lot of gushy talk. I ain't that kind. I say what I mean when I mean it, and the nearest thing I ever got to a stiff collar was a rubber one that choked me so bad I had to take it off."

He Sees the Park Zoo.

Taylor enjoyed the trip, though, all but the girls.

Charlie took him to Grant park. There he saw the only wild animals he had ever seen besides snakes and coons and beasts of the mountains. He was interested most in the monkeys. They looked so much like "niggers," but were so "dang near human" that they "oughtn't to be caged."

Charlie enjoyed the trip as much as Taylor. He got a lot of fun out of riding the youth in an elevator and watching the look of nausea that spread across his face as the falling sensation created a stirring, whirling feeling in vicinity midway between crown and toe.

Not Much on Near Beer!

And as for near beer, after Taylor had tried one glass, he declared that Atlanta's favorite beverage inspired within his bosom nothing but the most profound disgust.

"A big town ain't God's country," he told a reporter with him at police station. "This is the fust time I ever saw one, but the Lord helpin', I don't want to see no more. If I was to live here, I'd rather be in jail than to be eternally dodgin' those plague-taked things on the streets, and rushing about like a cow shot with birdshot. Naw, sir, give me Knob hill ever' time. They ain't got many good lookin' girls up there, and things ain't as sociable as they are down here, but everything's as quiet and peaceable as a graveyard—you don't have to git out of the way of nothin', and when you take a drink, you drink somethin' that's fittin' for a man."

HALT AND BLIND TAKEN TO POLLS

Even the Dead Impersonated. One Voter Died at the Polls in Londonderry.

Londonderry, Ireland, January 30.—Because a nationalist victory would give the Irish party a majority of the seats in Ulster, the bye-election for the seat in the house of commons to represent the city of Londonderry was contested in a most determined manner today. The seat was made vacant by the retirement of the Marquis of Hamilton, a unionist, to take the place of his father, the late Duke of Abercorn, in the house of lords.

In spite of the drenching rain, a record poll of 99 per cent of the electorate, numbering slightly over 5,000, was obtained. No official announcement of the result will be known until tomorrow, but the nationalists claim victory for their candidate, David C. Hogg, by a majority of 34 over the unionist candidate, Colonel H. A. Pakenham.

Scenes almost unparalleled in Irish elections were enacted at the polling booths. Voters had been brought from the American continent and other distant places. The sick, the dying, the halt and the blind were taken to the polls. Attempts were made to impersonate the dead. Others were so ill they were unable to move a hand.

One unionist voter dropped dead in his own house while a motor car with a doctor was waiting at the door to convey him to the booth. Another, a paralytic, was able to utter one-half of his choice's name and his vote was allowed. Still another recorded his vote under the guise of an invalid. He proved to be a man wanted by the police to undergo a term of imprisonment. The town was full of constabulary and was in a fever of excitement throughout the whole day.

David C. Hogg is a strong advocate of home rule, and the fact that he is a Protestant enabled him to take from the unionists a number of votes which otherwise would have been cast against the nationalist candidate, and he polled also practically all the Catholic home rule vote.

Colonel Pakenham, who is commandant of the London Irish rifles, is strongly in favor of resistance in Ulster of home rule.

IRISH HOME RULE REJECTED BY PEERS

Although Lords Reject Measure They Can't Prevent It From Becoming Law.

London, January 30.—After a four day's discussion the house of lords tonight rejected the home rule bill, 326 to 69. The result was a foregone conclusion.

The speeches aroused little interest because, as the Earl of Halsbury pathetically observed, the position of the house was now that of an ordinary debating club—the peers could express their views and reject the bill, but they could not prevent it from becoming law.

Nevertheless, the largest muster of peers since the fateful evening they passed the parliament bill assembled in the chamber and bejewelled peeresses thronged the side galleries.

Lord Lansdowne wound up the debate for the opposition; Lord Morley, of Blackburn, for the government.

The scene was altogether lacking in the dramatic excitement which accompanied the lords' rejection of Mr. Gladstone's bill in 1893 by a far larger majority, 378.

Lord Horley, in closing the debate, remarked the absence of the ferocity which characterized the debates on the Gladstonian measures, and, replying to Lord Lansdowne's warning that the giving of home rule to Ireland would be a menace to England if England ever were involved in serious international trouble, reminded Lord Lansdowne that his own land policy would give Ireland cash or credit to the extent of two hundred millions British money, and that Lord Lansdowne would scarcely be likely to do that if he really believed that Ireland was likely to become England's enemy.

Lord Curzon, in a speech earlier in the evening, also referred to the listlessness the public had shown over the bill and to "the deplorable and unutterable flatness of the debates in the house of commons."

The division was on party lines, practically the whole of the Episcopal bench voting against the bill.

William Schley Howard Introduces Bill to Increase Limit of Cost.

Washington, January 30.—A bill to increase the limit of the cost of the new postoffice building at Atlanta, Ga., from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000, was introduced in the house today by Representative Howard, of Georgia.

Greenville Farmer Commits Suicide After Telling Wife She'd Soon be Widow.

Greenville, Ga., January 30.—After buying a lot in a local cemetery, having a monument erected for himself and informing his wife that she would be a widow within two weeks, Joseph S. Smith, a farmer, aged 72, today committed suicide.

Mrs. Smith attached no importance to the statement of her husband, and was prostrated when she found him dying today from the effects of a drug.

KICK ON HEAD BY MULE WORTH $3,800 TO ALLEN

Enid, Okla., January 30.—A kick on the head by a mule was worth $3,800 to John Allen, a farmer living near here. Immediately after Allen was operated on today for a fracture of the skull which the mule's hoof had inflicted last aSturday, he remembered where he had buried that amount of money during the panic of 1907.

Allen's memory was impaired by an injury he received when his team ran away and threw him out of a wagon a few days after he had buried the money. It was known that he had withdraw the money from a bank and several persons suspected of stealing Allen's hoard were arrested, but none were convicted.

After the operation made necessary by the mule's kick, Allen seemed entirely to have recovered his memory.

"KEEP MOVING," SAYS UNCLE SAM TO GEN. CASTRO

Secretary Nagel Formally Bars Exile From Country.

MURDER IS LAID TO CASTRO

Alleged Castro Refused to State Whether He Was Party to Killing of Gen. Paredes.

Washington, January 30.—Cipriano Castro, former president of Venezuela, was today denied admission to the United States as a visitor by Charles Nagel, secretary of commerce and labor. The Venezuelan's unwavering refusal to answer the question whether, while president of his country, he was a party to the killing of General Paredes was the cause of Secretary Nagel's order for his deportation.

The cabinet minister sustained the adverse report of the immigration authorities against Castro on the ground that his declination to answer "may in itself constitute an admission by conduct" of the commission of a felony. The immigration law bars from entry any person convicted of or admitting the commission of a crime involving moral turpitude, providing it is not purely a political offense. The secretary held that the murder of Paredes was not a purely political crime.

Must Answer "Yes" Or "No."

Further, the secretary declared that an alien was compelled to answer "yes" or "no" any pertinent question regarding his admissibility. If permitted to refuse he maintained that "the immigration service might just as well adjourn."

The alleged information against Castro was furnished the department of commerce and labor by the state department and Secretary Nagel, in his decision, frankly admits, that but for the state department's action, Castro probably would have been admitted without question.

"Cipriano Castro's former position as president of Venezuela," he added, "would, under ordinary circumstances, have furnished further inducement for such action." The immigration bureau, he declared, had followed the same course in this case as that pursued in any other where official warning had been given regarding the character of an alien.

"It is officially charged," said Mr. Nagel, "that Castro, while president of Venezuela, and in full possession of the authority of that state, directed the killing of Paredes without trial or hearing of any kind. Paredes at that time having been made a prisoner while engaged in a revolt against Castro."

Specific Charge of Killing.

The information that Castro ordered the killing of the general under these circumstances, Mr. Nagel declares to be specific and confirmed by authenticated copies of original telegrams.

The secretary admitted the decisions in extradition cases seem to hold that such a crime would be political, "although this view has been questioned by high authority." Consideration, he added, however, must be given to the fact that the alleged offense was not committed by a person engaged in a revolution against constituted authority, but "by the president of the republic in full control of the authority of the state, who denied the benefit of the very law which he is charged to preserve." Also the secretary pointed out, that the immigration law was amended in 1903 so as to exempt offenses "purely political and not involving moral turpitude."

"I cannot assume," said Mr. Nagel, "that any act of violence, committed by the highest authority of the state during a disturbance in disregard of

CHURCH WILL NOT CALL BROUGHTON

There Is Decided Opposition to Former Pastor.

Many Think Dr. Broughton Should Have Stuck by Tabernacle in Its Trouble.

The Baptist Tabernacle has no idea of extending a call to Dr. Len G. Broughton, the former pastor and founder of the church, according to a statement made by the chairman of the board of deacons, C. W. Hatcher.

While there might be a few scattering members who would like to have Dr. Broughton again filling his old pulpit, there is no general sentiment for such action on the part of the congregation, it is stated.

There are many members of the church who would not under any consideration agree to a recall of the former pastor, it is said. Some of them openly say that they do not want Dr. Broughton back and that they have good reasons for that sentiment.

Hurt at Dr. Broughton's Withdrawal.

It is no secret that many members of the Tabernacle felt hurt at Dr. Broughton's resigning. They say that he left at a time when the church was heavily in debt and about to be seriously involved and the debts had been piled up by his own plans, and that he should have stuck by the church until what he had inaugurated was consummated.

"The talk about our church recalling Dr. Broughton," states Mr. Hatcher, "is absolutely without any foundation. The board of deacons has taken no action about the matter. The resignation of Dr. MacArthur came suddenly and found us totally unprepared. I do not know of a single member of the board who has any idea of wishing to extend a call to Dr. Broughton. There may be a few members of the congregation who might like to see our old pastor back with us, but I do not think there are enough of them to crystallize any such movement. What we will have to do is to get together quietly and select the best preacher we can secure."

Would Probably Cause a Split.

When asked if he did not think an effort to recall Dr. Broughton might cause a split in the church, Mr. Hatcher replied:

"Very probably so. There would very likely be a divided sentiment and we cannot afford at this critical time in the history of the church to do anything which would divide our ranks. As Dr. Hall said Wednesday night, we must all stand together."

Mr. Hatcher said he felt very sure that no call would be extended to Dr. Broughton.

The congregation will hold a meeting next Wednesday evening at the Tabernacle for the purpose of considering a sale of a part of the church property, and it is probable that the selection of a new pastor will be discussed.

Just at present no one knows who is likely to be called, but it seems a foregone conclusion that Dr. Broughton will not be considered on the eligible list.

BROUGHTON HAS SAILED FOR VISIT TO ATLANTA

Rev. J. W. Ham, secretary of the Tabernacle Bible conference, said last night that Dr. Len. G. Broghton, now of London, has sailed for America to pay his first visit to Atlanta since he went to England.

He comes to attend the Bible conference at the church of which he was so long pastor. He brings with him Dr. G. Morgan Campbell, of London, famous evangelist and Bible student. The conference will be in session March 7 to 16, inclusive.

The Working Man's Friend In Time of Sickness

I am a blacksmith by trade and would like to say a word to all who have to work hard and suffer with their kidneys. I suffered for about ten years and was treated by a Waynesboro, Va., Doctor. He said that I had Bright's Disease and that he had done all he could for me. I read about Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root and as I could hardly do a day's work, was willing to try anything that would do me any good. After taking Swamp-Root a few days I felt so much better that I continued until I felt that I was cured and I was altogether a new man. That was eight years ago and if I ever feel the least pain about my kidneys I just take a few doses of Swamp-Root and in a few days I am all right. I feel today that I am a well man and would say to all who suffer with their kidneys, take Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, for it has done more for me than all the doctors, and saved doctors' bills.

I can further say that about two years ago my son was sick in bed and was taking medicine from doctors and got worse all the time. I went in the night and got a fifty-cent bottle of Swamp-Root and told him to lay aside all the doctors' medicines and take Swamp-Root. He took six bottles and I am glad to say that he is well today and has not had any trouble with his kidneys since. It was Swamp-Root that cured him. My son now thinks that there is no medicine that a doctor can give that can compare with Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

Very truly yours,
G. W. HARDING,
Covington, Va.

Personally appeared before me this 8th day of March, 1912, G. W. Harding, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that same is true in substance and in fact.

Given under my hand this 8th day of March, 1912. B. H. PATTON,
Justice of the Peace.

Letter to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Prove What Swamp-Root Will Do For You.

Send to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. It will convince anyone. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling all about the kidneys and bladder. When writing, be sure and mention The Atlanta Daily Constitution. Regular fifty-cent and one-dollar bottles for sale at all drug stores.

GEORGIA LIFE CO. BACKS PRESIDENT

"Insurgents" Routed by Administration Forces at Stockholders Meeting.

Macon, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—The "administration forces" in the Georgia Life Insurance company are complete masters of the situation, the "insurgents" being defeated at every turn of the road. In a session lasting until midnight last night the "administration" board of directors was elected and the directors today elected officers for the ensuing year. At the meeting of the stockholders a resolution expressing confidence in the administration of President W. E. Small was adopted and all charges made against him were expunged from the record of the meeting. The vote on this was unanimous with the exception of one man who held five shares of stock.

The proposition to dispose of the life department of the company was indorsed, though this was not considered necessary by the board of directors.

The following were the new officers elected today: President, W. E. Small; first vice president, R. L. Wilson; second vice president, J. J. Cobb; third vice president, J. E. Smith, Jr., of Dublin; fourth vice president, L. B. Holt, Dublin; secretary, W. T Anderson; assistant secretary, J. C. Norton; general manager casualty department, E. P. Emerine; agency supervisor, Peter Epps; medical director, John C. McAfee; general counsel, W. B. Birch.

The directors elected last night were W. E. Small, Macon; J. W. Quincey, Douglas; T. B. McRitchie, Newnan; J. E. Smith, Jr., Dublin; L. B. Holt, Sandersville; J. J. Cobb, Macon; W. T. Anderson, Macon; Leon S Dure, Macon; J. S. Schofield, Macon; A. T. Small, Jr., Macon; J. S. Rogers, Doyle; R. L. Wilson, Macon; T. C. Parker, Macon; J. N. King, Rochelle, and P. J. Garbutt, Fitzgerald.

The meeting of the stockholders was a stormy one, but the administration forces were always masters of the situation. The insurgents were led by L. A. Shepherd, former secretary and treasurer of the company, who charged that President Small had gotten a "rake off" from the sale of stock by entering into a private agreement with J. F. Mercer, and condemned certain actions of the company, mainly with reference to owning stock in the Central Trust company and the Commercial National bank. Mr. Mercer received over $100,000 for selling the stock of the company, and his son is now suing for $30,000 alleged to be due still.

Gossip at the Capitol

Commission Prepares to Fight.

Judge James K. Hines, special attorney to the state railroad commission, who has been attending court in Washington county for the last week, is expected to return to Atlanta today. Upon his arrival he will enter into conference with C. M. Candler, chairman of the commission, and begin the preparation of an answer to the injunction recently filed in the superior court by various railroads to prevent the operation of the mileage "pulling" order of the commission which goes into effect Saturday. The hearing in court will come up February 3.

New Executive Quarters.

The offices of the executive department, which have been undergoing a general remodeling and cleaning up during the last week, are now practically complete and look as bright as a dollar. The most important innovation is the opening of a vault for the safe-keeping of state records. This vault formerly opened into the old office of the governor, which is now being used for the sale of hunting licenses. The vault had not been used for years, but it has been renovated and another door has been cut leading into the executive department offices. In this will be stored all the existing executive minutes and other valuable documents of the state, which have for years been exposed to theft, fire and other disasters. These records extend back almost consecutively to 1783.

High Court Sustains Recorder.

Judge Russell in his opinion handed down in the state court of appeals on Thursday in the case of DeFrees v. the city of Atlanta, upheld the decision of Recorder Broyles when he found W. E. DeFrees guilty of a violation of the municipal ordinance prohibiting the keeping of intoxicating liquors for sale without the proper legal apthority. In part, says Judge Russell:

"Under the facts in the case the recorder was fully authorized to conclude that the defense was merely a subterfuge and that the accused himself fas the seller, or, at any eventl, interested in the sale, and not as an agent for a purchaser. While, in prosecution for a violation of a municipal ordinance prohibiting the keeping of intoxicating iquors for sale, it is essential to show that the liquid kept by the accused was in fact intoxicating, the fact that the accused accepted from a common carrier, as whisky, receipting for them as whisky, authorizes the inference that the contents of the shipment were whiskey, as they purported to be, and the accused apparently understood them to be."

Club Cases Reversed.

The state court of appeals on Thursday handed down a decision reversing the action of the city court of Brunswick in fining the Progress club and the Brunswick-Oglethorpe club, of that city, $1,000 each for alleged failure to register and pay their licenses taxes. The reversal was made upon the ground that a corporation cannot be brought to trial except upon indictment or presentment by a grand jury, both of which were lacking in the case of the Progress club v. the city of Brunswick. The city court was therefore not clothed with the necessary jurisdiction to bring the club to trial.

This decision, however, does not affect the guilt or innocence of the clubs, and they may yet be tried either upon the execution of the proper legal form or upon the club's waiving the grand jury procedure.

Interstate Explosive Rules in Effect.

The state railroad commission on Thursday issued an order cutting in half the number of hours that shipments of explosives and inflammable articles may remain in the custody of a railroad company, and raising the storage charges on carload shipments of more dangerous explosives to $5 per day and less dangerous explosives to $2 per day, in addition to the regular demurrage charges. Demurrage charges on other classes of freight are $1 per car per day.

DENIES HUSBAND'S "SLAVERY" CHARGE

Mrs. Adel Hamilton, of Macon, Says She Was Merely Befriended by A. T. Carmichael.

Macon, Ga., January 30.—(Special.) Mrs. Adel Hamilton, wife of Harry Hamilton, of Louisville, Ky., who went before the federal grand jury and had A. T. Carmichael, a cigar dealer of St. Louis, indicted for violating the white slave laws, today vigorously denied all of the charges made by her husband.

Mrs. Hamilton, with her little son, is now with her mother, Mrs. Margaret Wheat, residing at 115 Lamar street. She has employed W. D. McNeil to represent her and declares that unless her husband files a suit for divorce she will take that action against him as soon as she has resided in Georgia long enough.

In his testimony before the federal grand jury Hamilton is alleged to have stated that his wife had been in company with Carmichael time and again while he was away from home and that they made frequent trips to West Baden. About ten days ago Hamilton came to Macon, accompanied by his attorney, and took out habeas corpus proceedings to secure possession of his child. When the case came up for a hearing he failed to appear and it was dismissed by the court. It was later learned that he had returned to Louisville and nothing further was heard until the indictment was returned in Louisville against Carmichael yesterday.

"Mr. Carmichael is an old friend of the family," said Mrs. Hamilton today, "but I have not seen him since my marriage in April, 1907, in Jeffersonville, Ind. When I had a row with my husband last October I had no one else to appeal to, so I wrote to Mr. Carmichael and asked him if he would lend me enough money to pay my expenses to Macon so I could live with my mother. He did not wait to write, but telegraphed me the money. When my husband sobered up from a drunk he made me promise to remain with him and then took possession of the money Mr. Carmichael had sent and paid a month's rent and bought himself a suit of clothes with it. Later he tried to get me to write Mr. Carmichael for more money and I refused to do so. He then flew into a rage and said that we would get $1,000 from that man, and when I refused to participate in any such scheme he denounced me and told me that he had the telegram Mr. Carmichael had sent me and that men did not send other men's wives money for nothing. He stole my child and then sent a lawyer to see me and told me that if I would sign a contract to separate he would permit me to have the child one month and he the next. In my distraction I signed the paper and got my child back again.

"Then I came to Macon and have been trying to keep my whereabouts a secret. The action against Mr. Carmichael is the latest step and I do not know what it means unless it is an attempt at blackmail. I am going to Louisville and testify in Mr. Carmichael's behalf when the case comes to trial."

Livingston Mims Thompson, of Louisville, Ky., is the only heir of Mrs. Mims. He is the son of Mrs. Joseph Thompson, now deceased, who was Mrs. Mims' stepdaughter and the only child of Major Mims by his first marriage. constituted authority, must under all circumstances, be regarded as purely political and not involving moral turpitude. If such a conclusion were to be accepted, then burning at the stake, or subjecting a victim to torture, or indeed any offense committed by an official in charge would satisfy the exception, provided the act is committed during political excitement and against a participant."

No Right to Refuse Answer.

Regarding the broader question as to the right of an alien to refuse to answer well-directed questions to determine his admisibility the secretary holds that the recognition of that privilege would result virtually in the admission of all aliens because of the failure of proof against them. He disagrees with the contention that the admission of the commission of a felony cannot be forced under the immigration law, but must be voluntary.

"The alien is not in a criminal court where he might stand upon his rights and refuse to make a confession," concluded the secretary. "He is before an administrative body asking for the privilege to enter and he is under the necessity of qualifying for that purpose."

Castro to Appeal to Courts.

New York, January 30.—As soon as Harold A. Content, Castro's attorney, received word this afternoon that Secretary Nagel has ordered his client's deportation, he said that he would apply immediately for a writ of habeas corpus to act as a stay in the execution of the government's decision. Mr. Content at once started to look for a federal judge to whom he might make the application.

$650 Up

Kimball Baby Grands of small compass, made to conform to the limited space idea. It hardly takes up more room than an ordinary upright piano; certainly an added attraction to your drawing-room. Artistic in design, and with additional string length produces more volume than an upright, it should prove especially satisfactory to the finished musician.

Or, should your choice be an upright piano, our forty styles of Kimballs, incased in either Mahogany, Circassian Walnut, French Walnut, Mission Oak and Rosewood should afford a splendid variety from which to select. Prices ranging from $195 to $440.

We wish to emphasize that each and every instrument on our wareroom floors bears the official tag of the Kimball Company, Chicago, and the prices are based on the fact that we manufacture and sell, through our agencies throughout the United States, 30,000 instruments yearly.

Furthermore, the fact that the World's largest manufacturers sell direct through this Branch Store, eliminating intermediate profits of jobbers, dealers and agents, insures you a saving of an amount almost equal to the price of a good piano.

Cash or time payments can be arranged.

BRYAN DENIES CABINET STORY

Pay No Attention to Such Reports, He Says.

Nebraskan Says No Friend Would Presume to Speak for Him in Such a Matter.

Miami, Fla., January 30.—Declaring that Henry E. Alexander, of Trenton, N. J., did not call upon him on political business, William J. Bryan today replied to the reports sent out from Miami to the effect that Mr. Bryan had given assurances that he would accept the portfolio of secretary of state in the Wilson cabinet. Mr. Bryan dictated the following:

"No attention whatever should be paid to such reports as sent out from Miami last night. No friend would presume to speak for me in such a matter and no man who would assume to speak for me can be considered a friend. I take it for granted that President-elect Wilson will give out anything he wants published and I will give out anything I want published. Neither of us should be held responsible for what anybody says. Speaking for myself, I do not care to discuss unauthorized reports. Mr. Alexander did not call upon political business, and our conversation was about an entirely different matter."

Democrats Saw Bryan.

Conferences between Mr. Bryan and other prominent democratic leaders, including Henry E. Alexander, of Trenton, N. J., a close personal friend of President-elect Wilson, resulted in the announcement by The Miami Herald that Mr. Bryan had given a positive assurance that he would accept the portfolio of secretary of state in the Wilson cabinet. Mr. Alexander left early today to return to Trenton.

Others who called on Mr. Bryan included Colonel E. M. House, of Texas, and Hugh C. Wallace, of Washington, one of the leading democrats of the northwest.

Mr. Bryan will, it is said, remain at his winter home here until the last of February, when he will leave for Washington, to be present at the inauguration ceremonies.

Report Stirred Washington.

Washington, January 30.—The report from Miami, Fla., concerning William J. Bryan's place in the Wilson cabinet, spread through the capitol today and aroused widespread interest and comment among senators and representatives. There was some misgiving at the outset as to accepting the report in the absence of an authoritative statement direct from the principals.

However, the prevailing view was that the report was in line with what had been expected for some time by those leaders having close relations with the president-elect and Mr. Bryan. Some of the leaders in the confidence of both the president-elect and Mr. Bryan asserted their belief in the accuracy of the statement that Mr. Bryan had accepted the portfolio.

It was said that Mr. Bryan had confided to prominent democratic senators some time ago the fact that he had been offered the position and had determined to accept it, but none of the leaders today was willing to permit the use of his name in connection with it.

W. H. TRUHART CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLING $500

Valdosta, Ga., Janaury 30.—(Special.) W. H. Truhart, formerly a cashier of the Georgia Southern and Florida railroad in this city, is in jail here on a charge of embezzling the funds of the road. The amount of the alleged shortage is a little more than $500.

Truhart left the employ of the road in July last and it is claimed that $350 of the amount was found short when he was checked out. The railroad claims that the remainder, $156, which has developed later, was a check for freight on a carload of beer which was cashed and the amount never turned in to the company. It is understood that Truhart lost his position with the railroad by reason of his inability to make a bond, the surety company formerly on his bond having withdrawn. Truhart denies any knowledge of a shortage in his accounts, and says he never took a dollar of the road's money. His friends have interested themselves in his behalf and will probably be able to make bond for him tomorrow and secure his release from jail.

M'GUFFEY'S TERM ENDS WITH ANOTHER ARREST

John McGuffey, white, aged 50 years, was released from the federal prison yesterday after having completed a one-year and one-day term imposed by Judge Speer at Albany, but was immediately rearrested upon a warrant issued by a federal commissioner at Anniston, Ala. McGuffey was convicted of violating the postal laws while in Albany and is now wanted in Alabama for the same offense. He will be transferred to Anniston, Ala., today by a deputy from United States Marshal Johnson's office for surrender to the federal authorities at that place.

The men themselves have contributed liberally to the movement, and the remainder necessary is being subscribed by the citizens. The military boys anticipate the trip with a good deal of pleasure, and already have sufficient funds in sight to insure their going.

COURT REVERSES INSURANCE CASE

Consumptive, Who Was Insured, Loses in Averring Waiver of Forfeiture.

The fact that an insurance company might have known that one of its policyholders was not an insurable risk at the time of the issuance of the policy does not constitute grounds for the waiver of a forfeiture in a contract of insurance, according to the decision of the state court of appeals handed down Thursday in the case of Wiley v. the Rome Insurance company.

In this case it appears that Dillard Wiley was in the advanced second stage of consumption when he was issued a policy in the Rome company, upon a physician's certificate of health, which failed to show the fact of Wiley's condition. Wiley, in his original petition averred a waiver of forfeiture in the contract on the ground that while the company may not have known of his condition they were at the same time in a position to have known before the policy was issued. The company demurred, which demurrer was appealed and sustained by the higher court.

In part the opinion says:

"Constructive notice of a fact is not the equivalent of actual knowledge, so as to evidence a waiver of a forfeiture in a contract of insurance, dependent upon material misrepresentations of fact, merely because the insurer, by the exercise of reasonable care and diligence, could have ascertained the truth as to a fact upon which the waiver is alleged to depend."

WALTON COUNTY TO HOLD ROAD BOND ELECTION

Monroe, Ga., January 30.—(Special.) At a mass meeting of Walton county citizens held in this city a few days since it was decided to request an election for bonds in the sum of $50,000 for the purpose of maintaining the county chaingang and improving the roads this year. Sentiment among the people is strongly divided as to the issuance of bonds, and no doubt the fight, when it comes on, will be a warm one. It is proposed to increase the chaingang force from thirty-five to fifty, and this meets with the general approbation of the people. Walton county roads have been greatly improved within the past few years, and our people and officials are determined that the good work must continue.

NO FUNDS FOR SICKLES FROM THOMAS VETERANS

Thomasville, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—It is not probable that there will be any contributions from the confederate veterans of Thomas county to the proposed fund to be raised by Mrs. Helen Longstreet for the relief of General Daniel E. Sickles, of New York. All of the veterans who have been seen here express themselves as against Mrs. Longstreet's plan, and fail to see any reason why they should assist General Sickles in the trouble which he brought upon himself with the knowledge that he had of the wrong he was doing. They do not seem to have a very warm spot in their hearts for him, anyway, but say that under different circumstances they would be willing to give something to help him, as they would to any old soldier in distress.

WEATHER MAP SHOWS CONTINUED WARM SPELL

The weather map shows that the meterological changes in the country west of here are following out the forecast for warm and clear weather for several days longer. Eeach day for the past two or three the mercury has climbed a notch or two higher by noon and apparently this will continue until the end of the week.

Practically the same conditions are prevailing over the entire country, with all sections having remarkably fine weather, and as the conditions are general there is no apparent reason to look for any early change.

MAD CAT BITES ALBANY CHILD

Health Board Says Feline That Attacked Herbert Cameron Had Rabies.

Albany, Ga., January 30.—(Special.) That a big cat whose home was in a Broad street grocery store was suffering from a malignant case of hydrophobia when it severely bit Herbert Cameron, 3 years old, Tuesday afternoon has been learned from the state board of health, to which the head of the cat was sent after the animal had been killed by a police officer.

The cat entered the rear of a store in which the child, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Cameron, was playing, and without warning attacked the little fellow, who was severely bitten. He is being given the Pasteur treatment. There has been a wholesale killing of stray cats in the Broad street neighborhood today.

KENNEDY-YOUNG CASE CALLED FOR SATURDAY

Augusta, Ga., January 30.—(Special.) The scheduled hearing of the Kennedy-Young case, the first two men charged with the street car murder at Augusta, was postponed this morning until Saturday morning. It is probable the Johnson case, the third man, may also come up at this time.

The case would have been heard today, but it was claimed the prosecution's star witness against the two men was unable to leave the hospital without endangering his life. Saturday, when the case comes up, the attorneys will instigate habeas corpus proceedings and ask that their clients be released on bail. They claim a sensational witness, who will prove the three men innocent. The case is attracting unusual attention.

Mellen Is Reindicted.

New York, January 30.—Charles S. Mellen, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company; E. J. Chamberlin and Alfred W. Smithers, president and chairman, respectively, of the Grand Trunk railway of Canada, were reindicted today by the federal grand jury for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law in an alleged monopolistic agreement between the New Haven and Grand Trunk roads. The indictments supersede those returned several weeks ago and attacked by the defense.

JURY FINDS B. L. PAUL GUILTY OF ASSAULT

B. L. Paul, a white man of over 50 years of age, recently indicted for attempted criminal assault upon his 13-year-old daughter, was found guilty of assault last night after the jury in the criminal division of the superior court had been out but a short time.

The girl is now at the Martha's home. The jury refused to believe her criminal charge, but held her father guilty of assaulting her. This charge is a misdemeanor, punishable by not more than a year's sentence, or $1,000 fine, or both. Judge Roan will pass sentence this morning when court convenes.

Paul lived at 61 Orme street with his daughter and two little boys at the time the crime was charged against him. He was employed as a plumber. He denied the child's charges in detail, assigning no cause for her making the claims. He was defended by Colonel Robert M. Blackburn.

STOCK COMPANY ACTORS DESERTED BY MANAGER

Waycross, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—Following a disagreement, the nature of which is unknown, the manager of a stock company known as Hall's Associate Players, pulled out from Waycross after sending his players to Nashville, and when they arrived a message advised them that the company was disbanded for the season. It is alleged by a few of the players who came back to Waycross that the manager, whose name is Hall, owed most all players some back salary.

From the story told here Hall missed the morning train out of Waycross for Nashville Sunday on purpose and the players thought he would follow on a later train. Money has been sent here from Philadelphia and New York for several of the company, but there are a few yet to get assistance before they can leave Waycross.

Opportunity Days In The Suit Department

Suits, Coats, Dresses and Petticoats Form An Interesting Collection of Under-Priced Garments

As winter and spring draw closer together prices diminish---and often for reasons that differ very materially.

At one time it is because we are making away with all winter merchandise---again it is because we have bought new things under circumstances peculiarly favorable this season---For instance here---

New Suits at $14.75 to $25.00
Instead of $25.00 to $48.50

This happens because a maker whom we favor with a very large business has taken "turn about" and let us have a number of suits that he used as samples—and among them are plainly tailored serges and novelty weaves in gray, tan, navy and black that you are going to see more of as the spring styles become better known. Will you be beforehanded?

New Dresses at $8.75 and $11.75
Instead of $11.75 and $15.00

A half dozen styles to choose from. Dresses best for street wear, in navy, black and maroon serge. Others of Copenhagen and white serge and navy and black Bedford cords. But their charm lies in the way they are trimmed about the collars, yokes and cuffs—with moire silk and black and white corded silk, and with heavy laces—for they are, in fact, $11.75 and $15.00 dresses.

Twenty-Nine Coats at $8.75
Instead of $15.00 to $21.75

An out-clearing of all Coats that come under the head of "fancy"—meaning those full length, rough mixture weave Coats that automobilists greatly appreciate and a number of three-quarter length Coats of tan, brown and navy boucle—with bright satin linings.

Along with these are all the black Coats—now priced at $11.75, $12.50, $15.00 to $19.75—which prices, with the exception of $19.75, represent just half original prices. Those now $19.75 were $29.75. Choose from black cloth Coats with plain or braid-bound edges, chinchilla, boucle or plush—some of them very elegant and rich-looking with heavy silk braids and frogs.

Fifty-Three Skirts at $2.95 and $3.95
Instead of $5.00 to $8.50

There are thirty-four at $2.95. Until now they were $5.00 and $5.75. There are nineteen at $3.95. Until now they were $6.00 to $8.50. Serges of light weight in navy and black, a few of black voile, another few of brown and navy corduroy; the others are the light tan and gray diagonals that will be splendid for spring wear.

Messaline and Taffeta Petticoats at $1.98 and $2.98

Not reduced by us—the reduction was made when we bought them the other day. But you will know at once, when you see them, that they are worth a good bit more than these prices. Those at $1.98 are of messaline and taffeta, in plain navy, black, light blue and in two-toned shades to match spring suits. They have a nine-inch flounce. Those at $2.98 are of messaline in about all colors. A splendid quality messaline—twelve-inch flounce.

A CLEAN CONTROL.

Full control of the legislative as well as the executive branch of the government is assured the democratic party by the election of Willard Saulsbury as United States senator from Delaware. Prior to Mr. Saulsbury's designation the democratic strength in the senate totaled forty-eight votes, which would have precipitated a partisan deadlock upon all important issues and required the constant intervention of Vice President Marshall. Delaware now contributes a senator to the democratic quota, bringing the latter up to forty-nine, or a majority of one over the combined republicans and progressives. Illinois, New Hampshire and West Virginia may make further additions to the democratic contingent. When it is considered that on many leading questions the opposition line-up will split to the advantage of the democracy, the party's strategic position is seen to be still further fortified.

The significance of absolute democratic control of the senate is many-sided. Primarily it means that more than ever is the need for harmony emphasized. There can be little leeway for intra-party dissensions where a scant majority of one is in existence. In the house, the majority of the democracy is so overwhelming that a few votes could be spared without jeopardizing the party's program. But in the senate the slightest rocking of the boat would beckon danger.

Had the party faced the task of materializing legislation with a minority or a tie vote in the senate, the country would have been less likely to hold it to rigid accountability for failure. As conditions exist, there will be scant tendency to be lenient in judgment. The nation is in no mood to split hairs over factional differences. It only knows that one political organization has been intrusted with all branches of the government. Upon the course of that party will depend its continued tenure of power or its more or less rapid return to the twenty-year-old role of futile opposition.

As developments have thus far manifested themselves, senate democrats appear to fully recognize the responsibility resting upon them. No divergences save those that skillful leadership can reconcile have as yet been revealed. The real test is, however, still to come. The next three or four months should tell the tale. In the meantime, the cultivation by new and holdover democratic senators of a spirit of conciliation and concession is the most impelling duty to the party and the country, which has handed down unmistakable mandates.

RALLY TO THE FIFTH.

Atlanta is already well started on the way to redeem a blot on its civic reputation by sending the Fifth regiment and the Atlanta artillery to the Wilson inaugural. Should the city and the county appropriate each the $2,000 asked of them, the amount needed will be more than half secured. Public-spirited citizens have contributed liberally to bring the fund to this advanced status. Upon further such action by the community, hangs the question whether the Fifth shall go to Washington.

It should be needless to repeat the arguments already cited in behalf of the movement. Should Atlanta fail in this matter it will write itself as less enterprising, less liberal than many smaller cities and towns in Georgia. The city will go without adequate military representation at the inauguration of the first democratic president in two decades. The nation, with its eye ever on Atlanta, will notice the omission. The damage to the municipality's prestige would be unquestioned.

Only a few days remain in which to make impossible this undesirable development. The city and the county and Atlantans, generally, should co-operate in making the trip of the Fifth speedily a foregone conclusion.

THE ONCOMING INCOME TAX.

Whether or not the New Jersey and West Virginia legislatures ratify the constitutional amendment authorizing a federal income tax, it appears only a question of months before the latter measure becomes a law. Favorable action by two states only is needed, and since seven are still to pass upon the proposal, not counting New Jersey and West Virginia, the result may be forecasted as a certainty.

House democratic leaders are already laying their plans contingent upon the ratification of the amendment. Should the states declare themselves within the next few weeks their action is likly to have a definite effect upon tariff legislation, insofar as reductions of the schedules will make necessary finding new sources of revenue for governmental maintenance. In the event there is delay in securing a verdict, the probability now is that the excise tax proposed at the last session will be revived and enacted.

At all events the nation is nearer an income tax that is court-proof and permanently enforceable than it has been since the civil war. For this fact, there is cause for widespread gratification. Wealth will now be called upon to defray its just share of governmental upkeep. The burden upon the average American, whether in direct or indirect form, will be lessened. The levying of so equitable an impost will usher in a new and salutary chapter in economic history of the nation.

POWDER OR PEACE?

The forthcoming week should determine whether Turkey will need another chapter of bloodshed to bring her to a realization of the untenability of her position in Europe. The fluctuations in the negotiations, first between the peace allies in London and again between the Porte direct and the European concert, spells the obvious reluctance of all parties to countenance a resumption of hostilities.

Had the so-called "Young Turks" been in earnest in the mouth-filling threats they uttered with the overthrowing of the peace party in Constantinople, fighting would long ago have replaced the present nebulous situation. They appear, however, to have as keen a realization of the desperate predicament of the empire as that shown by their predecessors, and their subsequent policies have indicated that despite their self-acclaimed title of the "party of progress" they are proverbially Turkish in their sinuous diplomacy.

Either by the combined pressure of Europe or terms exacted by the Balkan coalition, Turkey will have to leave Europe. The powers have long enough tolerated her presence there, an ever-threatening source of menace. They are not likely to let go the present opportunity to abate a peril that has for centuries hung as a shadow over the peace of the old world.

HEALTH BEFORE PREJUDICE.

President-elect Woodrow Wilson makes an announcement of importance when he tells a gathering of social workers that while he favors a national bureau of health he does not favor placing it in charge of the advocates of a single school of medicine. The most serious opposition to such a government innovation has heretofore risen in the fear that it would be monopolized by the followers of just one medical creed.

It is evident that in the establishment of a national bureau charged with the functions and powers of safeguarding the national health, the varying schools of medicine should be given proportionate representation on it. Of course, that school which is dominant by members would exercise greater influence than the other schools. That very fact would impose upon it the obligation to practice in the meeting of its official duties only those methods having already the sanction of medical science generally.

In the last analysis, a national department of health would be operated along the lines of the marine hospital service, as well as the health boards of the different states and cities. In these fields, there has been little conflict between diverse theories, and where these have occurred the saner view has invariably prevailed. President-elect Wilson should not, therefore, be deterred from vigorously pushing the movement because of a more or less visionary fear of a "medical trust." This is small pretext for the nation to longer continue the inadequate discharge of what should be its primary duty—protection of life and promotion of efficiency in this country.

CONTRAST.

London is thrown into a panic by the violence of suffragettes, whose cause seems no nearer fulfillment than when it was first floated. In seven American states women vote for presidential electors, and in cities and towns innumerable for officers with local jurisdiction.

Peaceful rather than riotous methods win, especially where women are involved. The latest outbreak in England is especially deplorable, since the liberal government appeared to be, of its own volition, on the verge of recognizing the appeals for universal suffrage.

Unwomanliness bids fair to retard rather than advance the movement.

So far Providence has been dead against the coal trust. Providence only deals with human beings.

The marching suffragettes wear boots, and their motto is to win or die in them.

The Musical Auto.

I.

The musical auto is with us,
And when it is hurling you high
You'll land with a song
Where the glad angels throng,
At the gates of the psalm-singing sky.
It's rough that a fellow in that way should go,
But still, he'll be dying to music, you know!

So, hail to the musical auto!
Whenever you get in its way
It's just like a band
Running wild o'er the land,
Though you've no time to holler "Hooray!"
Reflect, when it strikes you and lands you sky-high,
You'll enter, with music, the gates of the sky!

I wish that the post, with its parcels
Would stop at my dwelling some day
And gather the high cost of living
And lose it somewhere on the way!
Somewhere in a first-class old blizzard to blunder
And get that big bundle of trouble snowed under!

I'd vote the brave postman a medal—
A shrine where glad pilgrims would pray,
If he'd shoulder that high cost of living
And lose it somewhere on the way.
Somewhere on the road where the life-horses race,
And tilt it right over the jumping off place!

But Winter, he was surly
And left the sunny track,
Went into the darkness
With his blizzards on his back.

News to the Professor.

(From The Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

Two students went out and had a good time—or what they thought was a good time—Saturday evening. And they ambled homeward at about the midnight hour; and it occurred to one of them to ring the bell at the residence of a certain professor. No sooner thought than accomplished.

The professor stuck his head out of the upper window.

"What is it?" he asked.

"One of your windows is open, professor."

"Thank you, gentlemen. Which window?"

"The one you've got your head out of!"

Then they ran.

New News of Yesterday

The True Account of Lord Howe's Incivility to General Washington.

By E. J. Edwards.

(Copyrighted, 1913, for The Constitution.)

This daily series of anecdotes and incidents that throw new, interesting and frequently dramatic light on famous events and personalities of the past have been collected by Mr. Edwards during near forty years of more or less intimate acquaintance with many of the country's leaders since the civil war. Each anecdote or incident is fresh from Mr. Edwards' notebook, and, either in whole or in part, it constitutes NEW NEWS OF YESTERDAY, garnered from the men who made the news—the history—or from equally authoritative sources. As important contributions of the "human interest" sort to American history, these articles have a distinctive value all their own.

"It was my good fortune to be able to lend some very valuable historical documents to George Bancroft, the historian; to Washington Irving, who was, as you know, my personal friend, and to Benson J. Lossing, who wrote the 'Field Book of the Revolution,'" said the late General James Watson Webb to his children a few years before his death, in 1884. General Webb was a son of General Samuel B. Webb, who was aide-de-camp to General George Washington during the revolutionary war, after a brief service as aide-de-camp to General Israel Putnam, shortly after the battle of Bunker Hill. The senior General Webb was transferred from the staff of General Putnam to that of Washington, and his place on General Putnam's staff was filled by the appointment of Aaron Burr.

E. J. Edwards.

General James Watson Webb's father kept a journal and a vast mass of correspondence, of which only one volume of journalistic records escaped destruction. I have told recently the curious manner in which these records were destroyed by the senior Webb's children, who were allowed to use them as playthings.

The anecdote which General Webb told to his children about 1876 was repeated to me by one of those who heard it.

"As I have told you, I came into possession of the only journal kept by my father which was not destroyed in play by myself and brothers and sisters in the year 1846. It was sent to me from Philadelphia. I haven't the slightest idea how it ever got from our old home near Claverack, New York, to Philadelphia. This was the journal which I lent to Mr. Lossing and afterwards lent to George Bancroft and to Washington Irving, both of whom made use of it in their histories.

"In this journal is told the true story of something which has passed into tradition, but of which the authenticity was never satisfactorily established until this journal was recovered.

"Everybody who has read American history very carefully is familiar with the tradition which asserts that Lord Howe, when in command at New York, superciliously addressed an official letter to 'George Washington, esquire.'

"My father's journal narrates in detail the whole circumstance. Father wrote the order signed by General Washington for the reading of the Declaration of Independence to the army. He also wrote the order relating to the destruction of the statue of George III.

"I suppose that it was on account of his closeness to Washington that he was directed by Washington, together with Colonel Joseph Reed, another of Washington's aides, to receive persons who were bearing a flag from General Howe. The journal goes on to say that when the bearer of the flag presented them with the letters it was found that these documents were directed to 'George Washington, esquire,' instead of to 'General Washington.' The aides declined to receive the communication. They prevented this offensive and supercilious missive from reaching the hands of Washington. The journal states that Washington, when he learned the facts, cordially approved their conduct. A few days later the bearer of a flag presented them with a letter in which Lord Howe asked that his adjutant general might be admitted to an interview with his excellency, General Washington.

"Lord Howe had learned a lesson. His conduct was always after that characterized by the nicest military etiquette. But it was not until the discovery of this lost journal, picked up somewhere, I think, in interior Pennsylvania among a lot of rubbish, that the true story of the manner in which Lord Howe was compelled to address Washington as his excellency, General Washington, was made known."

Tomorrow Mr. Edwards will tell of "Some Great Orators Who Memorized Their Speeches."

BACKBONE

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Stiffen your Backbone.

There are two kinds of Backbones—the one with the Back and no Bone and the one with both Back and Bone! Backbone! What great things have been put across in your name!

Stiffen your Backbone.

It is a great thing to have a big brain, a fertile imagination, grand ideals, but the man with these bereft of a good Backbone is sure to serve no useful end.

Stiffen your Backbone.

There is a little vine that starts at the base of great trees. Then it climbs and twines about until it squeezes and saps away unto death the tree around which it clings. It has not a Backbone—no vital individual strength of its own, so it seeks out to tear down and kill where there is strength, power and life. That is what Backbone-less people do.

Stiffen your Backbone.

Use it to stand alone with. Use it to bolster up your own individual resources. Use it to strengthen weaker Backbones than your own. Use it for the working out of your entire Character. Do but this and deeds done will gather about you in Battalions, and Opportunity will stand around anxious to introduce you to its friends.

Stiffen your Backbone.

Use your Backbone at your job today—you who clerk, you whose fingers pound the type keys, you whose brains formulate plans, who distribute details and master problems. For the temple of Success is upheld by the strong arms of men and women who have Backbone and use it.

Stiffen your Backbone.

The World's Mysteries

MYSTERIES of ANTIQUITY

DID NAPOLEON DIE AT ST. HELENA?

Did Napoleon Bonaparte die at St. Helena? Was he ever a prisoner on that island? Could it be possible that he fooled the English to the very last and finally died, as he lived, a free man? All these questions seem strange in view of the tons of literature which have been written in every language of modern civilization regarding the life of the great French general as an exile at St. Helena, and of his final death, and the return of his remains to France to be buried with great honors many years afterwards.

A distinguished French historian, M. Omessa, has doubted for years that Napoleon ever saw St. Helena as a prisoner, and boldly declares that the general, after losing all on the field of Waterloo, refused to give himself up to the hated English, but instead escaped to Italy, and sent his double, Private Robeant, to St. Helena, in accordance with plans laid long beforehand.

General Bertrand, Napoleon's friend of a limetime, is supposed to have made the supreme sacrifice of accompanying Robeant to the island so as to blind the English to the trick being played upon them. For seven years, according to Omessa, the real Napoleon lived in Verona, selling spectacles to British travelers.

At last the desire again to see his only son, whom he adored, got the better of his caution, and the former conqueror of Europe, the hero of the finest army the world has ever seen, went to Vienna, where his little son was in the care of Francis II., the Austrian Emperor, who had thought it an honor to call Napoleon son-in-law, and was shot down like a dog while trying to climb the wall which surrounded the palace.

M. Omessa, who spent a great many years in his investigation of the subject, on his journey to the Austrian court could find no evidence of this killing on the official records, but he declares he happened upon the private note book of one Corporal Arnstein, who was procurator of the palace. It contains the following entry, dated September 5, 1823:

"Yesterday an unknown person attempted to scale the high railings around the park at Schoenbrunn. As he refused to come down or explain himself the sentry on duty fired at him. The stranger died gasping the words, "King! My son!" Who the man was I do not know. He had a long beard yet looked like Napoleon I. When the Emperor of Austria heard of the occurrence he went to look at the man, and immediately gave notice to the French ambassador, who betrayed unusual emotion and claimed the body in order to send it back to France. This was done."

This was but one of the many incidents which has led this French historian to declare that Napoleon himself never reached St. Helena in banishment. He has been able to unearth a document in the French archives which says "A Volbigeur of the Third Regiment of Napoleon I., by name Francois Eugene Robeant, died on the island of St. Helena, belonging to the English." The date on the parchment has been carefully eliminated, but Omessa says he can prove that no soldier of that name ever was on the island of St. Helena as such.

And still another important document in the mind of this historian comes from the declaration of an English witness, Miss Maud Ella Ritchie, who knew Napoleon in Paris, and managed to get permission to see him on the island, whereupon she wrote home: "I was most astonished when they introduced me into the presence of the ex-emperor. Instead of that great and kingly manner which Napoleon presented, even after his final defeat at Waterloo, I found a cringing little man with none of that self-possession of Napoleon. My suspicions, which I dare scarcely express, were heightened by the behavior of General Bertrand, who treated the prisoner with the utmost disdain."

By way of confirming the suspicions of the English woman, M. Omessa adds that she was more than justified in her thoughts, since the English governor himself early detected the fraud and began to treat the false Napoleon in a manner that never would have been assumed toward the real emperor. Omessa says that the charges of brutality and cruelty made at the time were true and that the English governor knew well enough that he was mistreating not the master of half of Europe, but a shallow double sent to die for the eagle whom the net of a continent's armies had not held.

The story of the defeat of Napoleon, his exile to St. Helena, his lonely life there, even to the most minute details, is familiar to every reader, and not worth repeating, but there exists at least the shadow of a doubt in the minds of many whether or not the greatest schemer the world has ever seen would not have found it possible to do just what the French historian has credited him with having done.

Tomorrow—Who Originated the Apostles' Creed?"

Bass Horns

By GEORGE FITCH
Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

Copyrighted, 1913, for The Conhtitution.)

A bass horn is a brass labyrinth about five feet in diameter through which it is possible for a capacious man to respire in such a manner as to be heard for half a mile on a calm day.

A bass horn is a good deal like some politicians. It is grand enough when supported by the entire organization, but when it gets off by itself people laugh at it and decline with great vigor to listen to its remarks.

The bass horn when skilfully operated produces a series of nicely graduated grunts at the lower end of the musical scale which add richness and body to the general effect. To do this the operator must feed a small windstorm into the little end of the instrument while lugging it over uneven streets and around corners, keeping step with the rest of the disturbers and reading his music by the light of a flickering torch held by a boy who is having an animated quarrel with two jealous friends on the sidewalk. All this keeps the bass hornist occupied and prevents him from brooding in idleness. Very few mahouts of bass horns go wrong or indulge in vicious habits while playing in the band. They do not have time to do so.

The bass horn never travels in the front rank of the band and is seldom called upon by the conductor to make any remark by itself. It usually travels behind with the heavy baggage, but for all that it is indispensable and greatly beloved. If the bass horn were to turn the wrong corner and carry its performer down a side street, the entire band would come to a full stop and music would desert the air until the instrument could be found and herded back into place.

Playing the bass horn does not require a deep, vigorous intellect. A pair of versatile lips, bottomless lungs and broad, strong shoulders, which do not gall easily, are more valuable. Bass horn performers usually begin to practice during their careless youth and before they know it, the habit has them in its awful clutches. Very few bass horn players become president of the United States, because at critical moments in their career they must coil their instruments about their shoulders and go forth into the cold world to blow seven miles and six furlongs of melody for some lodge, which is planting a departed member with full honors.

Character Cameos

By Robert V. Carr

Do you know anyone like this?

Imaginary Person No. 62.—Clerk in railway ticket office. Age 28. Unmarried. Nose pointed, with tight nostrils. Mouth habitually open. Ears thin and flapping. Goose-necked. Salary $18 a week—has never had a raise. Greatest conception of a "howling time" is to buy a sack of peanuts and attend a ball game, where he bleats frantically for his home team. A stickler for style, especially in hats. His underclothes may be ragged, his watch in the pawnshop, but No. 62's hat, or what he calls his "bean-plate," is the correct thing. Servile to superiors, but snappy, yawning and tiresome with patrons of the road. Moves with a languid air. Would like to marry an actress, and sees no attractiveness in anything but dazzle, tinsel and show.

Comment.—No. 62 belongs to that ever-increasing class of city ciphers. He is a human being, however, and is entitled to a chance. But his cheap egotism will never permit of his promotion. His mind is glued upon the trifles—things that do not count. The latest style of hat, or what is doing in baseball circles, adds nothing to No. 62's ability, originality or brain force. His gray, ordinary mind is cluttered up with rubbish. He will walk back and forth to the office until he is an old man. After a time he will be kicked out, for corporations want young men. No. 62 should keep his mouth shut and breathe through his nose, square his jaw and get down to a consideration of the realties of life.

Spain the Land of Romance

(From Harper's Weekly.)

Spain is your right country for romance. All the romance of the east washed up there on the red shores. Today the Berbers in the African mountains and the haughty bronzed man of Morocco yet strain eyes across the blue strait, yet hang above each household hearth, beside the polished gun and the crooked sword, the key of an ancestral garden where white Cordova steams in the plain, or of a crumbling palace where tawny Granada hangs on the green hillside below the snows. All the romantics of the west have turned to look across the Pyrenees; have marched and countermarched with Charlemagne past Pampeluna, down the wide basin of the milky Ebro as far as Saragossa, and back through the broad mountain pass of Roncevaux; or tramped the pilgrimage into Galicia, to the shrine of Santiago. The starry way of Saint James lies right across the sky, and the road below it runs in past Saint Gilles, glittering among the marshes, past the Abbey of Moissac, fallen from its high estate, past Puenta la Reina, where a queen long dead built the pilgrims a bridge, westward and ever westward to Compostella. You cannot miss the way.

It is a land of magic, and who shall say that it is not black magic? Old-fashioned travelers still urge that you must go thither between spring and summer, when the yellow charlock and the poppy spread tatters of the Spanish flag broadcast over every plain, the tall magenta foxglove stands shoulder high on the heathery banks of the north; and the laurier rose—the wild oleander—flushes the mountain water courses of the south. Then you will find in Andalusia a conventional picturesque fit for the keepsake and the token, and in Asturias a little Switzerland fit for Turner and Ruskin. But in burnt midsummer and bitter autumn and brown winter the Spanish landscape is infinitely more romantic. It is as exciting as Hungarian music played by a real Gypsy band, and as troubling.

SIX-YEAR TERM FOR PRESIDENT

Proposed Amendment Attacked by Friends of Roosevelt.

Senator Dixon Drags Woodrow Wilson Into Debate--Proposed to Exempt Wilson.

Washington, January 30.—Presidential terms ranging all the way from two to six years; prohibitions against second terms and third terms; exemptions that would affect Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson, and proposals for the recall and the direct popular election of presidents were thrust into the senate today in rapid succession during the first day's consideration of the constitutional amendment limiting the president to a single term of six years.

In a session filled with lively debate, Senator Bristow's proposal that a president could be recalled at any regular election was voted down, 58 to 1, and Senator Hoke Smith's amendment to make the single term four years, instead of six, was defeated, 42 to 25. Over a dozen amendments were pending when the senate recessed tonight, and they will be taken up tomorrow.

Senators Dixon and Poindexter, progressives; Bristow, progressive-republican, and Lodge, republican, led the fight against a restriction of the presidential term. Senator Williams, democrat, proposed a four-year term, with the privilege of re-election once, but his amendment was so drawn as to prevent Colonel Roosevelt from seeking another election.

Recall Amendment Defeated.

The defeat of the Bristow amendment for recall of the president followed a short debate, in which Senator Bristow urged that to make the federal administration properly responsive to public demand, the people should have the right to change the president when they change congress. The vote on the recall amendment mustered ten votes only in its favor, the following senators voting for it:

Bristow, Clapp, Dixon, Gronna and Poindexter, progressives and republicans; Ashurst, Martine, Owen, Perky and Thomas, democrats.

The candidacies of Roosevelt, Wilson, Bryan and Taft figured in the fight throughout the day. Senator Borah said President Taft had not used the power of his office for his own re-election in 1912 to any greater extent than President Roosevelt had used it in 1908 for the election of Mr. Taft.

"President Roosevelt wanted Mr. Taft nominated because he believed Taft would carry out the principles to which the Roosevelt administration was devoted," said Senator Bristow. "A president who would not use every effort to perpetuate his policies would not be worth his salt."

Senator Hitchcock asked if it was not "generally believed" that Roosevelt favored President Taft's nomination in 1908 so that he himself might be a candidate in 1912.

Product of Diseased Mind.

"I know the senator himself does not entertain such a thought," returned Senator Borah, "so I feel free to say that such an idea is the product of a diseased mind."

Senator Dixon's charge that single six-year terms were desired chiefly by ambitious aspirants for the presidency and the declaration of Senators Bristow and Poindexter that this proposed limitation would be destructive of American principles of government, made up the burden of the progressive fight against the resolution.

Senator Bristow declared that people should be free to choose their own president and to re-elect a president when they believed it wise. He declared the constitution should include a recall provision so that when congress is overthrown because an administration is not satisfactory, the people also could recall the president and establish a new administration throughout.

"If the truth must be stated," Senator Dixon said, "this resolution might better be entitled 'A proposed amendment to the federal constitution for the relief of certain aspirants for the presidency of the United States.'"

To Exempt Wilson.

Senator Paynter, democrat, offered a provision that when the amendment should be ratified, the president then in office should be entitled to a six-year term. He declared no question should be left open as to whether it applied to President Wilson.

"Wasn't it your understanding that Mr. Wilson was elected for a four-year term?" asked Senator Dixon.

Senator Paynter returned that the amendment should be made so that it would take effect immediately, notwithstanding who might be in office. Senator Dixon's retort was to suggest that it be so changed that it would not apply to "President-elect Woodrow Wilson." He declared that no amendment should be adopted to the constitution that would prohibit the people of the United States from exercising their own judgment as to whether a president should be re-elected.

"We are offering something that is not demanded by the people, except as that demand flows from some personal ambitions," declared Senator Dixon. "Are you democratic senators going to embarrass President Wilson by declaring that no matter how good his administration may be, or how much the people may desire him to serve again, he shall be debarred, in order to provide an opportunity for others who want the presidential office?"

Wilson Stands on Platform.

Senator Martine, of New Jersey, declared Senator Dixon could "leave Woodrow Wilson out of the debate," as Mr. Wilson had announced his sympathy with the democratic national platform, which indorsed a single presidential term.

"Has Woodrow Wilson said he would not be a candidate for another term?" demanded Senator Dixon.

"Not in so many words," answered Mr. Martine, "but he has several times indorsed the expression of the democratic platform."

"Was there any agreement with him before he was nominated that he would not accept another term?" persisted Senator Dixon.

"I know of no conference on that subject," replied Mr. Martine.

Senator Dixon declared he had heard that the real author of the single term plank in the democratic national platform was "a man whose name began with B, and wasn't Beckham."

Senator Dixon again demanded of Senator Martine whether President-elect Wilson had, in precise language, limited himself to a single term.

"I still believe that Mr. Wilson has declared his position to be in favor of a single term," answered Martine.

"I have observed in the past," retorted Senator Dixon, "that he has held different views from what he does now. Possibly that is the case in this matter."

Followers of Roosevelt.

One of the substitute amendments that had provoked the Dixon-Martine debate was offered by Senator Williams. He declared, however, that he "did not want to antagonize the following of an ex-president," and would change his substitute so it should apply only to future presidents."

"Make it so it will not apply to any man who has run for president three times," retorted Senator Dixon.

Senator Clarke, of Arkansas, offered an amendment to exempt from the operation of the single term provision the president who might be in office when the constitution was amended. Senator Root objected to all amendments of that character, declaring that changing the federal constitution was so serious a matter that it should not be complicated by the consideration of the "personal interests of Wilson, Roosevelt or Taft."

An amendment authorizing the recall of a president at any biennial national election was presented by Senator Bristow.

Senator Bacon offered an amendment to reduce the proposed six-year term for a single four-year term. It was defeated, 42 to 25.

Suspension of Government.

"When a president has had two years and his administration is not satisfactory, the people elect a congress of different political view to the president," said Senator Bristow, supporting his proposal. He added that there had been a suspension of government for two years because the people were dissatisfied with President Taft's policies. A six-year term, he declared, without a recall provision, would make the government less elastic and less responsive to the public will.

MANY FAVOR PAY FOR LAWYERS FOR THE POOR

The question of asking a legislative enactment providing for the state to pay lawyers appointed to defend indigent criminals is now being discussed by Atlanta attorneys following the recent statement of Governor Brown, in pardoning a negro, that there was a tendency on the part of judges to select inexperienced lawyers.

In discussing the matter, Judge L. S. Roan, of the criminal division of the superior court, concurred with those who believe in some payment being made for an attorney's work when he is appointed by the court. Judge Roan also mentioned the difficulties in obtaining a lawyer, stating that frequently a man has to be selected from those in the courtroom and that the judge, while he tries to do everything in his power for the prisoner's welfare, must feel that he has not the right to appoint a lawyer knowing that his other work would be interrupted and his plans thrown awry.

Montezuma, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—Colonel J. M. DuPree, trustee of the Georgia Normal and Industrial college and a member of the democratic executive committee from the third district, died tonight.

Colonel DuPree suffered a stroke of paralysis and had been an invalid for several weeks. He leaves a wife and three children, Mrs. W. L. Boyd, of Bartow, Fla.; Mrs. H. N. Gallaher, of Montezuma, and James DuPree, Jr., of Byromville, Ga.

REGRET DEATH OF MRS. WHITE

Peace Society Will Offer Resolutions of Regret at the Meeting Friday.

At the meeting of the Georgia Peace society Friday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the chamber of commerce rooms, resolutions of regret will be offered for the death of Mrs. H. C. White, head of the Georgia Federation of Woman's clubs and the wife of Dr. H. C. White of Athens, who is president of the society.

There are about fifty members of the society in Atlanta, and others scattered over Georgia. The call has been issued by the acting secretary of the Georgia organization, Dr. J. J. Hall, who is a representative of the American Peace society. All interested in the advancement of universal peace are asked to attend.

Several questions of importance will arise at the meeting. Plans will be discussed for holding a Georgia peace convention some time this spring, similar to the North Carolina convention which will be held in February. Several new vice presidents will probably be elected.

HOBOES ARE OPPOSED TO THE VAGRANCY LAWS

New Orleans, January 30.—The adoption of certain tactics of the English suffragettes are threatened by the hoboes unless there is less drastic enforcement of vagrancy laws in some states. At today's session of the National Hobo convention, otherwise known as the International Brotherhood Welfare association, resolutions were adopted in condemnation of the manner of enforcing the vagrancy laws in California, Illinois, Georgia, Mississippi, Texas, Missouri and Louisiana. In these states it was declared the police authorities make unnecessary arrests of unemployed men and fail to recognize a distinction between "bums who don't want work" and "respectable hoboes who can't secure work."

The resolutions were offered by James Eads How, of St. Louis, so-called "millionaire hobo leader," who declared that if the resolutions were not heeded the hoboes should adopt the tactics of the English suffragettes.

"The jails will be full of us if we adopt these suffragette tactics," said How, "and I am sure if we attempt to convert the prison guards and raise a disturbance generally in the jails, we will be released and our demands acceded to."

Copies of the resolutions were ordered sent to the legislatures of the states named.

Attendance at the convention is a disappointment to President Jeff Davis and to the other leaders. Less than 200 "hoes" are present. The activity of the police has made it impossible for a number of the "delegates" to present their credentials.

STOCKHOLDERS LOST $1,750,000 BY DEAL

New York, January 30.—When Drexel & Co., a Philadelphia bankers, and White, Weld & Co., of New York and Chicago, purchased the stock of the Baldwin Locomotive works for $25,250,000, George H. Robinson alleges that the stockholders of the locomotive company lost $1,750,000. Robinson, a New Rochelle broker, declares also that the deal cost him $500,000 in commissions and he brought suit in the federal district court today to recover this sum from Alba B. Johnson, of Dover, Pa., who acted as agent for the stockholders.

Under agreement with Johnson, Robinson says he arranged with Kuhn, Loeb & Co. to buy the Baldwin stock for $27,000,000. Before the deal was ratified, he alleges, Johnson secretly negotiated with Drexel & Co. and White, Weld & Co. for the sale of the stock for $25,250,000.

CARPENTER FALLS HEIR TO PART OF $15,000,000

Duluth, Minn., January 30.—To find one's self heir to a portion of $15,000,000 of an English legacy after spending the best years of one's life toiling as a carpenter, is the experience of John Jewell, 46 years old. The estate, when divided, will leave Jewell several times a millionaire, according to advices received today.

Jewell and his wife and two sons came from Camborne, Cornwall, England, twelve years ago. Not long ago Jewell received news of the death of an uncle, Richard Jewell, in England, and today received word that the uncle's estate will approximate $15,000,000.

The absence of George Jewell, one of the five heirs, who went to South Africa and has not been heard from in twenty years, will tie up the estate until he can be found.

BAGGAGE CHECK PROVES DELIVERY

Court of Appeals Renders Important Decision, Reversing Savannah Case.

A decision handed down by the court of appeals on Thursday is to the effect that the possession of a baggage check given by a common carrier is sufficient proof of ownership and of the delivery of the baggage to the carrier for the owner to recover in case the baggage is lost. There is one exception to this rule, according to the court, and this is in case a road rebuts constructive delivery, evidenceed by the check, by proof that the lost property was never received by it.

The opinion in part reads:

"A baggage check given by a railroad company to a passenger is prima facie evidence of the delivery of the baggage to the company, because it has so made it, and the check stands in the place of a bill of lading. If it is not a contract it is in the nature of a receipt, and is evidence of the ownership, delivery and identity of the baggage. A passenger to whom the carrier delivers a baggage check is not required to prove that the carrier actually received the baggage which the check symbolizes until the carrier has rebutted the constructive delivery evidenced by the check by proof that it never, in fact, received the baggage."

This opinion is the reversal of the decision of the city court of Savannah in the case of Lewis v. Ocean Steamship company.

J. TALLIE COMER COMMITS SUICIDE

Well-Known Traveling Man Hangs Himself Brooding Over Imaginary Illness.

J. Tallie Comer, a well-known traveling salesman, was found dead yesterday morning in the cellar of his brother-in-law's home, 341 Washington street, where he had hanged himself.

Mr. Comer ended his life in a fit of despondency caused by continual brooding over imaginary illness.

He had been under treatment at the Piedmont sanitarium, but Wednesday night went to the home of his brother-in-law, D. S. McCalla. At the sanitarium he was told that he had no physical ailments, and he was given treatment for his mental condition. Early Thursday morning he arose, and, after walking around as if very nervous, slipped into the cellar, where his body was afterwards found. He had been dead some thirty minutes when Mr. McCalla cut him down.

His brooding over his condition was so intense at times that he frequently spoke of wishing that his life would end.

Mr. Comer had been connected with the Oglesby Grocery company for eight or ten years, and was regarded as a most faithful and successful salesman. His business was in excellent shape.

He was 38 years of age and is survived by a wife and a 4-year-old son, two brothers, W. Guy Comer, Athens, and L. S. Comer, Maysville; two sisters, Mrs. T. E. Adkins, Gainesville, and Mrs. A. H. White, of Athens, and his mother, Mrs. W. J. Comer, Athens. He was a member of the St. John's Methodist church, and the Georgia Travelers' association.

The funeral will take place Friday morning from the residence and the interment will be at the Decatur cemetery.

W. G. AKERS SAYS THAT THE SOUTHERN BUSINESS COLLEGE IS APPROACHED BY NO OTHER

Seventy-five New Pupils Entered the Popular Southern in January, and a Large Number of Others Have Arranged to Begin the First Week in February.

"It looks more business-like here than in any other business school I have visited," said one of the callers this week upon the managers of the Southern Shorthand and Business University.

"Your school seems to have a large attendance, and from the favorable information I have gathered, I have decided to place my son with you."

The foregoing remarks were made to the managers of the Southern by a gentleman who made a very thorough investigation of business schools.

Business Men's Indorsement.

Those desiring to become expert stenographers and high-class bookkeepers are requested to follow the course of the gentleman above referred to—

Make diligent inquiry among Atlanta's prominent business men—

Then the task of deciding where to take your business course will be an easy one.

Mr. W. G. Akers, who writes about his success, is a young man who is going to make a mark in the business world. He has already made a good start towards the "goal of business success." His interesting letter follows:

"Atlanta, Ga., January 15, 1913.
"Southern Business University,
Atlanta, Ga.

"Gentlemen:

"As I have met with such good results since graduating from your institution, and have realized great returns from time and money expended in your school, I feel that an expression of my appreciation is due you.

"Words are inadequate to say how much I am indebted to your painstaking efforts in my behalf as a student, and then your personal interest in securing me a good position.

"I am with the well-known grain dealers, A. C. Woolley & Co., where you placed me.

Graham Shorthand Superior.

"The practical application of your system of shorthand as taught in your school, has convinced me of the superior worth of the old, established Graham-Pitman shorthand, as I experience no trouble in writing or transcribing my notes, even when given at a high rate of speed, and every day of its use impresses me that it is the one system.

Praises the Teachers.

"And then your teachers, may they reap their reward, were so kind and considerate, and seemed to take a personal interest in the welfare and progress of the scholars, that I will always consider them among my best friends.

Enjoys a Reputation.

"Persons considering taking a business course, do themselves an injury if they do not figure with this well-established institution, for I find it enjoys a reputation with business men, who always want the best trained, not approached by any other schools. Thus, its graduates have this advantage to start them on a business career.

"Wishing for you and your school the continued success it so well deserves, I am, at all times,

"Your appreciative student,

SIX-YEAR TERM FOR PRESIDENT

Proposed Amendment Attacked by Friends of Roosevelt.

"When a president has had two years and his administration is not satisfactory, the people elect a congress of different political view to the president," said Senator Bristow, supporting his proposal. He added that there had been a suspension of government for two years because the people were dissatisfied with President Taft's policies. A six-year term, he declared, without a recall provision, would make the government less elastic and less responsive to the public will.

MANY FAVOR PAY FOR LAWYERS FOR THE POOR

The question of asking a legislative enactment providing for the state to pay lawyers appointed to defend indigent criminals is now being discussed by Atlanta attorneys following the recent statement of Governor Brown, in pardoning a negro, that there was a tendency on the part of judges to select inexperienced lawyers.

In discussing the matter, Judge L. S. Roan, of the criminal division of the superior court, concurred with those who believe in some payment being made for an attorney's work when he is appointed by the court. Judge Roan also mentioned the difficulties in obtaining a lawyer, stating that frequently a man has to be selected from those in the courtroom and that the judge, while he tries to do everything in his power for the prisoner's welfare, must feel that he has not the right to appoint a lawyer knowing that his other work would be interrupted and his plans thrown awry.

REGRET DEATH OF MRS. WHITE

Peace Society Will Offer Resolutions of Regret at the Meeting Friday.

At the meeting of the Georgia Peace society Friday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the chamber of commerce rooms, resolutions of regret will be offered for the death of Mrs. H. C. White, head of the Georgia Federation of Woman's clubs and the wife of Dr. H. C. White of Athens, who is president of the society.

There are about fifty members of the society in Atlanta, and others scattered over Georgia. The call has been issued by the acting secretary of the Georgia organization, Dr. J. J. Hall, who is a representative of the American Peace society. All interested in the advancement of universal peace are asked to attend.

Several questions of importance will arise at the meeting. Plans will be discussed for holding a Georgia peace convention some time this spring, similar to the North Carolina convention which will be held in February. Several new vice presidents will probably be elected.

HOBOES ARE OPPOSED TO THE VAGRANCY LAWS

New Orleans, January 30.—The adoption of certain tactics of the English suffragettes are threatened by the hoboes unless there is less drastic enforcement of vagrancy laws in some states. At today's session of the National Hobo convention, otherwise known as the International Brotherhood Welfare association, resolutions were adopted in condemnation of the manner of enforcing the vagrancy laws in California, Illinois, Georgia, Mississippi, Texas, Missouri and Louisiana. In these states it was declared the police authorities make unnecessary arrests of unemployed men and fail to recognize a distinction between "bums who don't want work" and "respectable hoboes who can't secure work."

The resolutions were offered by James Eads How, of St. Louis, so-called "millionaire hobo leader," who declared that if the resolutions were not heeded the hoboes should adopt the tactics of the English suffragettes.

"The jails will be full of us if we adopt these suffragette tactics," said How, "and I am sure if we attempt to convert the prison guards and raise a disturbance generally in the jails, we will be released and our demands acceded to."

Copies of the resolutions were ordered sent to the legislatures of the states named.

Attendance at the convention is a disappointment to President Jeff Davis and to the other leaders. Less than 200 "boes" are present. The activity of the police has made it impossible for a number of the "delegates" to present their credentials.

STOCKHOLDERS LOST $1,750,000 BY DEAL

New York, January 30.—When Drexel & Co., the Philadelphia bankers, and White, Weld & Co., of New York and Chicago, purchased the stock of the Baldwin Locomotive works for $25,250,000, George H. Robinson alleges that the stockholders of the locomotive company lost $1,750,000. Robinson, a New Rochelle broker, declares also that the deal cost him $500,000 in commissions and he brought suit in the federal district court today to recover this sum from Alba B. Johnson, of Dover, Pa., who acted as agent for the stockholders.

Under agreement with Johnson, Robinson says he arranged with Kuhn, Loeb & Co. to buy the Baldwin stock for $27,000,000. Before the deal was ratified, he alleges, Johnson secretly negotiated with Drexel & Co. and White, Weld & Co. for the sale of the stock for $25,250,000.

CARPENTER FALLS HEIR TO PART OF $15,000,000

Duluth, Minn., January 30.—To find one's self heir to a portion of $15,000,000 of an English legacy after spending the best years of one's life toiling as a carpenter, is the experience of John Jewell, 46 years old. The estate, when divided, will leave Jewell several times a millionaire, according to advices received today.

Jewell and his wife and two sons came from Camborne, Cornwall, England, twelve years ago. Not long ago Jewell received news of the death of an uncle, Richard Jewell, in England, and today received word that the uncle's estate will approximate $15,000,000.

The absence of George Jewell, one of the five heirs, who went to South Africa and has not been heard from in twenty years, will tie up the estate until he can be found.

BAGGAGE CHECK PROVES DELIVERY

Court of Appeals Renders Important Decision, Reversing Savannah Case.

A decision handed down by the court of appeals on Thursday is to the effect that the possession of a baggage check given by a common carrier is sufficient proof of ownership and of the delivery of the baggage to the carrier for the owner to recover in case the baggage is lost. There is one exception to this rule, according to the court, and this is in case a road rebuts constructive delivery, evidenced by the check, by proof that the lost property was never received by it.

The opinion in part reads:

"A baggage check given by a railroad company to a passenger is prima facie evidence of the delivery of the baggage to the company, because it has so made it, and the check stands in the place of a bill of lading. If it is not a contract it is in the nature of a receipt, and is evidence of the ownership, delivery and identity of the baggage. A passenger to whom the carrier delivers a baggage check is not required to prove that the carrier actually received the baggage which the check symbolizes until the carrier has rebutted the constructive delivery evidenced by the check by proof that it never, in fact, received the baggage."

This opinion is the reversal of the decision of the city court of Savannah in the case of Lewis v. Ocean Steamship company.

J. TALLIE COMER COMMITS SUICIDE

Well-Known Traveling Man Hangs Himself Brooding Over Imaginary Illness.

J. Tallie Comer, a well-known traveling salesman, was found dead yesterday morning in the cellar of his brother-in-law's home, 341 Washington street, where he had hanged himself.

Mr. Comer ended his life in a fit of despondency caused by continual brooding over imaginary illness.

He had been under treatment at the Piedmont sanitarium, but Wednesday night went to the home of his brother-in-law, D. S. McCalla. At the sanitarium he was told that he had no physical ailments, and he was given treatment for his mental condition. Early Thursday morning he arose, and, after walking around as if very nervous, slipped into the cellar, where his body was afterwards found. He had been dead some thirty minutes when Mr. McCalla cut him down.

His brooding over his condition was so intense at times that he frequently spoke of wishing that his life would end.

Mr. Comer had been connected with the Oglesby Grocery company for eight or ten years, and was regarded as a most faithful and successful salesman. His business was in excellent shape.

He was 38 years of age and is survived by a wife and a 4-year-old son, two brothers, W. Guy Comer, Athens, and L. S. Comer, Maysville; two sisters, Mrs. T. E. Adkins, Gainesville, and Mrs. A. H. White, of Athens, and his mother, Mrs. W. J. Comer, Athens. He was a member of the St. John's Methodist church, and the Georgia's Travelers' association.

The funeral will take place Friday morning from the residence and the interment will be at the Decatur cemetery.

It is expected that all available seats will be occupied.

W. G. AKERS SAYS THAT THE SOUTHERN BUSINESS COLLEGE IS APPROACHED BY NO OTHER

Seventy-five New Pupils Entered the Popular Southern in January, and a Large Number of Others Have Arranged to Begin the First Week in February.

W. G. AKERS,
Stenographer for A. C. Woolley & Company, after taking a course in the Southern Shorthand and Business University.

"It looks more business-like here than in any other business school I have visited," said one of the callers this week upon the managers of the Southern Shorthand and Business University.

"Your school seems to have a large attendance, and from the favorable information I have gathered, I have decided to place my son with you."

The foregoing remarks were made to the managers of the Southern by a gentleman who made a very thorough investigation of business schools.

Business Men's Indorsement.

Those desiring to become expert stenographers and high-class bookkeepers are requested to follow the course of the gentleman above referred to—

Make diligent inquiry among Atlanta's prominent business men—

Then the task of deciding where to take your business course will be an easy one.

Mr. W. G. Akers, who writes about his success, is a young man who is going to make a mark in the business world. He has already made a good start towards the "goal of business success." His interesting letter follows:

"Atlanta, Ga., January 15, 1913.

"Southern Business University,
Atlanta, Ga.

"Gentlemen:

"As I have met with such good results since graduating from your institution, and have realized great returns from time and money expended in your school, I feel that an expression of my appreciation is due you.

"Words are inadequate to say how much I am indebted to your painstaking efforts in my behalf as a student, and then your personal interest in securing me a good position.

"I am with the well-known grain dealers, A. C. Woolley & Co., where you placed me.

Graham Shorthand Superior.

"The practical application of your system of shorthand as taught in your school, has convinced me of the superior worth of the old, established Graham-Pitman shorthand, as I experience no trobule in writing or transcribing my notes, even when given at a high rate of speed, and every day of its use impresses me that it is the one system.

Praises the Teachers.

"And then your teachers, may they reap their reward, were so kind and considerate, and seemed to take a personal interest in the welfare and progress of the scholars, that I will always consider them among my best friends.

Enjoys a Reputation.

"Persons considering taking a business course, do themselves an injury if they do not figure with this well-established institution, for I find it enjoys a reputation with business men, who always want the best trained, not approached by any other schools. Thus, its graduates have this advantage to start them on a business career.

"Wishing for you and your school the continued success it so well deserves, I am, at all times,

"Your appreciative student,
"WM. G. AKERS."

Many Are Enrolling.

New pupils are arriving every day at the Southern, as though it were the only business school in this section.

The people admire the Southern's business-like appearance.

They like its large, wide-awake, enthusiastic and efficient faculty.

They are pleased with the way in which the business men speak of it.

ANOTHER BEAUTIFUL SENTIMENT HAS GROWN INTO A NIGHTMARE

EVOLUTION OF CORSAGE BOUQUET

By Isma Dooly.

Unlike the violet-like little bathing suit, which shrunk and shrunk from modesty, the corsage bouquet, which had its beginning in a cluster of modest violets, has grown and grown until it has to be delivered to mi-ladi in the largest carry-all the florist has.

While some say it was the cluster of modest violets worn first in Paris, which gave birth originally to the now ponderous steel structured promontory of flowers which modish young women wear, others say that the origin of the fashion, which is now expressed in such egregiously commercial form, is the outcome of sentiment—the kind of sentiment practiced when men called on ladies and bore them gifts in the way of flowers gathered by the donors in their mothers' gardens.

"I recall that when my husband was courting me he never called without bringing me a flower from his mother's garden," said one belle of the sixties, in bemoaning the fate of the flower as a carrier of sentiment.

"It was always too short-stemmed, but I would place it in the folds of my gown, and afterward put it in my Bible. It gave him such joy afterwards when, turning over the leaves of the sacred book, he recognized the flowers he had sent."

A Single Flower Each Morning.

Another silver-haired dame, whose admirers came from many lands to pay her court, said that the man who won her had his man servant convey to her maid servant each morning for six months preceding their courtship a single flower, which was placed upon her pillow and was the first thing her eyes rested upon when she awoke.

The flowers for many years afterwards filled her rose jar, her most cherished possession. Another member of the old school of the past said that she never saw or inhaled the sweetness of the wild rose that she did not call it blessed, for the one of all others she had cared for preferred that flower and had made a hedge of it about the garden path which led to her gate.

While these dear old ladies of "lavender and old lace" look out of their windows and inhale with pleasure the perfume of the first jonquils and buttercups of the season and recall from the past the lovers who brought them posies, their granddaughters, the belles of today, fish in their bathtubs each morning for the flowers which can be rescued from the debris of wired blossoms which made up the floral breastplates of the night before.

Yes, the bottom of the bathtub is frequently full and many a father of today has a plumber's bill to pay because of the pieces of wire, the fragments of pasteboard and big-headed pins which are a part of these ornaments borne and worn by their daughters and laid in the bathtub after the ball.

Blame It on the French.

The French women are charged with the wearing of the first artificial flower on the corsage, but they have held daintiness in the ornament; the bouquet worn by those goddesses of fashion still wearing the cluster of violets or a single orchid set in sprays of lilies or a gardenia.

They wore last season very long-stemmed violets which the florists so held together they fell gracefully over a strong pin, but never was wire used to produce the stiff or solid effect of those bouquets typically American.

In artificial flowers the single flower on the corsage gives finish to every chic toilet, and the rose and the chrysanthemum are popularly seen. In New York the orchid, sometimes one or more, are seen, fresh and dew-kissed, on the coat or the muff of the modish woman.

But the large bouquet—the real floral offering—never gets away from her boudoir table, or from the crystal vase on her dressing table. She adores flowers—yes, expects them from the right one very often, but it never occurs to her to be so appreciative that she must carry around on the front of her corsage especially those cut low and made mostly of lace or chiffon, huge chunks of flowers, which leave forever their imprint on her gown.

Three dozen closely set roses sprayed with lilies, make up the average-sized bouquet which one sees commonly worn these days, while in violets the dozens used for one bouquet are countless. To hold them en masse wires of the stiffest kind are used and the more pretentious of these ornaments have a regular backbone of steel. Back of that is placed a satin-covered pasteboard sometimes fringed or otherwise ornamented, and last come the daggers, the purple-topped pins, which must penetrate through the back of the bouquet and then hold the flowers to the front of the gown. On the thin woman the fashion is obviously troublesome. On the stout woman—horrors!

Large Bouquet on Little Woman.

The woman of average size, while standing or moving, can wear the preponderous bouquet of the moment and not look grotesque; the little woman, especially the one who aims to accentuate her littleness, just looks nothing short of funny when she comes bearing in front of her a growing of flowers that extends from the shoulder to the waist lines, and makes one to wonder how she is managing to get along with it. I care not to mention how Madame Embonpoint appears in her floral approach, but at dinner every woman who wears a corsage bouquet of size is more or less awkwardly placed, for in order to make room for the flowers she must sit some inches farther away from the table than even the stout gentlemen sit on each side of her.

The more one thinks of the evolution of the once pretty corsage bouquet from its original daintiness to its present exaggerated form, the more one deplores it, for a flower is exquisitely ornamental. The remedy might be that the offering be divided; that just as many flowers, expressing just as much sentiment, be sent, but at different times.

What a joy it would be to the young woman of sentimental inclination to get a small cluster of violets about three or four times a week, which would claim the attention of others to a constant admirer, rather than the floral heavyweight to challenge her strength and ruin her gown for the dinner-dance!

Indeed, more than one young woman has been known to lament that all these flowers should come at once!

ACCIDENT DUE TO A CUSPIDOR

Mother of Young Baby Stumbles and Falls--Serious Complications Set In.

Duffield, Va.—In advices from this place, Mrs. J. L. Johnson says: "When my baby was about a month old, I stumbled and fell over a cuspidor, and contracted such pains in my back, I could not stoop over without falling to the floor.

I got terribly weak, and was very uneasy about myself.

My case was certainly a serious one. I was so delicate that most people thought I was going to have consumption, and I thought so myself.

Finally my husband advised me to try Cardui, the woman's tonic. I tried it, and am confident that it saved my life.

The pains in my side and back have disappeared, and all of my friends here say that I am looking better than I have done for a long time.

I recommend Cardui to all of my lady friends, as I believe it will help them, just as it did me, if they will only give it a trial.

You may use this letter in any way you wish. I feel so grateful, for if it had not been for Cardui, the woman's tonic, I believe I would by this time have been in my grave."

Try Cardui for your troubles. It will help you, as it did Mrs. Johnson.

Cooking School.

The cooking school to be opened Monday under the auspices of the ladies of the First Presbyterian church, is being listed as the first and most important interest on many women's calendars of activity for the ten days comprising the course.

It will be held every morning from 10 to 12 o'clock in the basement of the church, Mrs. Dull to be the demonstrator, and on Monday, the first day, the ladies of the church will be the guests of the school.

The demonstration Monday will include planked shad, spaghetti, tomato aspic, Mayonnaise.

Tickets for the course are one dollar, and individual lessons, 25 cents, except on Saturday, schoolgirls' day, when the admission will be 10 cents.

To Miss Hays.

Misses Martha and Mildred Greer gave a pretty dinner of ten covers Wednesday evening at their home in Inman Park in compliment to Miss Louise Hays, of Montezuma, who, with her mother, Mrs. J. E. Hays, is visiting their mother, Mrs. L. C. Greer.

To Mrs. Hays.

Mrs. Walter Barnwell gave a matinee party yesterday in compliment to Mrs. J. E. Hays, of Montezuma, who was the guest of Mrs. L. C. Greer.

Mrs. MacArthur's Departure.

The departure today of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Stuart MacArthur for New York after a year's residence in Atlanta was the occasion for throngs of callers all day yesterday in their apartments at the Georgian Terrace.

Mrs. MacArthur, whose reputation of earnestness and ability in various lines of mission, welfare and religious work, had preceded her arrival here, at once identified herself with similar movements in Atlanta, and her service carried the two-fold value of zeal and broad experience. She won the admiration of the Atlanta women with whom she came in contact socially and in philanthropic work, and their expressions of regret are for the woman and the worker. Her practical suggestions, her willing spirit of co-operation, and her strong and attractive personality will be missed in local councils of woman's endeavor, and by the warm friends she made here.

Princeton Dinner.

Dr. Charles E. Boynton entertained at dinner last night at his home in compliment to Mr. H. G. Murray, secretary of the graduate council of Princeton, and the occasion was a happy assembling of twenty local alumni of that university.

The dining room had an elaborate and beautiful decoration in plams, flowers, and Princeton colors and emblems. The table centerpiece was a large silver loving cup of Golden Gate roses, the handles tied with orange and black, and smaller cups and vases were filled with jonquils. The silver candelsticks burned yellow candles unshaded, and the place cards, tied with orange and black ribbon, were tigers, the old North Tower, "cane spree," the Princeton seal, and other appropriate designs.

The Princeton seal was hung over the mantel on which pennants were hung in the midst of palms, and fierce tigers looked over the scene from mantel, buffet and cabincts.

Mrs. Little's Luncheon.

The luncheon at which Mrs. John Little entertained yesterday was a beautiful one at which forty ladies were seated in parties of four and six around tables radiant with flowers, the fragrant narcissi and jonquils combined.

Silver and crystal vases held these in the center of the tables and bowls filled with them were on the mantel and cabinets in the dining room and in the loggia, where the guests were served.

The menu included substantials and dainties, and the details were most artistic. Mrs. Little and her sister, Mrs. L. O. Stevens, received their guests in the drawing room where tall vases held American beauty roses, the same flowers used to decorate the library.

Mrs. Little's becoming toilet was of black satin, the skirt draped, and the corsage combining white chiffon and black shadow lace. Mrs. Stevens wore a pale gray charmeuse satin, with trimmings of lace and a touch of turquoise blue.

Women to Build Memorial School

During her recent visit to the city, Mrs. M. A. Lipscomb brought the message to Atlanta club women that the club women of Athens will build and maintain a memorial school in the mountains to be known as the Ella F. White Memorial school, this a tribute to the memory of the late Mrs. H. C. White. This memorial is to be promoted by the members of the Athens Woman's club, and is a separate expression from that of the Georgia Federation of Clubs, who are planning a memorial for Mrs. White.

The year book, which contains the annual report of the Georgia Federation has been placed in the hands of club members. On the front page is a memorial tribute to Mrs. White, written by Mrs. John K. Ottley, in her characteristic and charming style. It was read by Mrs. Howard McCall, secretary of the executive board, to the members of the board at their meeting Wednesday.

Miss Lucy Lester, of Thomasville, has accepted the office of corresponding secretary of the federation, and Mrs. Lott Warren, one of the most gifted women in the organization, has been appointed editor in Georgia for the General Federation, which hereafter will have a page devoted to its interests in The Ladies Home Journal.

To Doctor K. G. Matheson.

The members of the University club, of Atlanta, have issued invitations to a reception Tuesday evening, February 4, in compliment to Dr. K. G. Matheson, president of the Georgia School of Technology. The reception will be at 8:30 o'clock, and the occasion will be a distinguished one socially.

To Mrs. Haverty.

Miss Helen Payne entertained yesterday in compliment to Mrs. Clarence Haverty, the occasion a pretty luncheon of ten covers.

The luncheon table centerpiece was of yellow tulips and white hyacinths, and elaborate detail of color was in yellow and white.

Miss Payne was becomingly gowned in blue chiffon over flesh-colored satin. Mrs. Haverty wore a tailored gown of white satin and a white velvet hat with a pink rose.

Dinner-Dance at Seven.

At the dinner dance at the Driving club Saturday night, which promises to be one of the largest and most enjoyable of midwinter gatherings, dinner will be served at 7 o'clock in order to allow more time for dancing.

To Visitors.

Miss Emily Winship was hostess yesterday at an enjoyable bridge party in compliment to Miss Dorothy Johnson, of Birmingham, the guest of Miss Alice May Freeman, and Miss Frances Rowland, of New York, the guest of Mrs. Forrest Adair. The game was followed by a dainty luncheon.

Miss Johnson wore a three-piece suit of black charmeuse embroidered in shades of blue, and attractive picture hat with blue plumes. Miss Freeman wore gray crepe meteor with a finish in cerise, and her hat was trimmed with cerise plumes.

Pupils' Recital.

A recital will be given at the Barili school of music Saturday afternoon, February 1, at 3 o'clock by Miss Helen Jones and Miss Jeanette Lowndes. The program will be a most attractive one.

A Sale Today

Linen and White Remnants 1-4 Less
Printed and Wash Remnants 1-3 Less

Never in our history have we conducted a sale so successfully as this January white event.

The month just ending was overwhelmingly satisfactory. Having been intelligently and carefully prepared, the sales became thoroughly popular from the beginning. Illustrative of their great success is the voluminous assortment of remnants, short pieces, oddments and broken assortments to be sold today.

Sales Were a Success, Because We Met Your Wants. Not Merely Because We Were Anxious to Sell.

Because of these great sales, we find, at the end of the month, these remnants and odd pieces and mussed lots and broken assortments, to be closed out one-fourth and one-third less than sale prices.

Every piece offered is desirable, else it would not be a remnant.

EVERY REMNANT SHOWN POINTS WITH PRIDE TO ITS ANCESTRY

HE SAYS GOVERNMENT WILL OWN RAILROADS

Pittsburg, January 30.—At the Traffic club banquet here tonight Arthur Brisbane, who made one of the principal addresses, asked the railroads to lend their assistance in extending the parcel post, arguing that it would increase their revenue, and declared that government ownership was coming slowly.

"Politicians of today," said Mr. Brisbane, "are too dishonest as compared with railroad men. Heaven help the United States if the men now managing politics, with a few distinguished and scarce exceptions, should get their hands on your business. But government ownership will not conflict with any man's property. It won't keep Mr. Vanderbilt from racing in Paris if he wants to and it won't take away a dollar to which any man is entitled. By propely directed public spirit, government ownership will do a great deal for the country and especially you railroad men. For the real workers in the railroads there is very little in the private railroad system. Government ownership has been coming for centuries and it will take in the railroads by and by, as it will also take in the telegraph and telephone."

Mr. Brisbane declared that the railroads were opposing the free passage of coastwise ships through the Panama canal, and urged them for their own good to forsake that policy.

RATTLE OF TIN CANS SAVED U. S. SOLDIERS

Washington, January 30.—The rattle of tin cans which had been hung to barbed wire entanglements around the night camp of a detachment of regular troops in the Philippines recently prevented a massacre of Americans by the fierce Moro tribesmen, and resulted in the complete rout of the natives, according to war department reports.

The scheme was the idea of the American commander. Sentries had been stationed 300 yards inside the entanglements, and when the Moros attempted a night attack, the noise of the can in the underbrush aroused the American soldiers in time to check the Moros' stealthy assault.

SOUTHERN METHODISTS ARE RECEIVED BY TAFT

Washington, January 30.—Delegates attending the conference of chairmen of the Sunday school board and field secretaries, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, to weld the church work into a more compact national unit, were received by President Taft at the white house today.

The Sunday schools, it was urged at today's session of the conference, should be given a better chance to extend their work than had been corded them in the past. Rev. I. ... Workman asked that women be allowed to participate in the conferences. Rev. J. C. Mimms touched lightly upon woman suffrage and declared that women should be given an opportunity to co-operate with men in every big movement.

GOD'S APPROVAL LAID ON BLEASE

At Least, Governor Claims He Has Blessing of Almighty.

In Remarkable Message to Legislature on Pardons Blease Credits His Course to Lord.

Columbia, S. C., January 30.—Governor Cole L. Blease today transmitted to both houses of the general assembly a message on his pardon record. He assigns reasons for all of the paroles, pardons and commutations he granted, and concludes with the assertion that he has nothing to apologize for.

The governor says his recent re-election vindicated his actions and that in spite of the large number of preachers, women and others who prayed for his defeat, the majority of the pople and God Almighty, by putting him again in the governor's office, approved of his administration.

Over 500 Pardons.

The message shows that Governor Blease has exercised clemency in over 500 cases during the two years of his administration.

The message in part, says:

"I want all of my acts as governor of South Carolina to be known to the public. I am not afraid of them, for the indorsement which I received from 72,243 of my white fellow-citizens, is pretty strong proof of the fact that my administration was indorsed, and if the machine had given me all of the votes that were cast for me, and my opponents had not used money, whisky and intimidation, instead of being 72,243 it would have been at least 90,000, as I predicted at the beginning of the campaign; and as a very large number of my fellow-citizens now believe, fully feeling that I was not given all of the votes which were cast for me, besides the ones which were taken from me for the reasons just above mentioned."

"Help From Almighty."

Referring to his re-election he says: "My people gave me my reward, a second term as governor of my state, and I believe that my reward hereafter will come in due season, for I still believe that only by the help of God Almighty could I have won my first race and I know positively that only by His help could I have defeated the unholy organization that was formed against me last summer by men of two different factions, which hated each other then, and who hate each other now, but were willing to lie down and swap odors in order to defeat Blease.

"Think of it. Many preachers, nearly all the newspapers of the state, the corporations, that is the leading officials thereof, the lawyers, almost in a body, a large majority of the legislature, nearly all the state officials, a large majority of the delegates to the state convention in May, the money interests, a large majority of the commercial travelers, commonly called 'drummers,' some of the women praying, some of the old-line so-called conservatives, many of the Haskellites, the Cubans, the Spaniards, and the mixed breeds, a majority of the state executive committee, a large majority of the county executive committees and all of the election machinery—what a combination, and yet I beat.

"God Heard Prayers."

"Therefore, I know that God heard the prayers of myself and my friends, and I repeat that, had it not been for Him I could not have won such a victory, and once again I sing 'Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow,' and as I said, and repeat now, I will answer to Him for all my acts to my people, for my acts as governor. I have no apologies to make to any man or set of men for a single parole, pardon or commutation that I have done since I have been governor of South Carolina, or for a single word I have spoken, whether in the state or outside of it, firmly believing that my pardon record for the past two years had more to do with causing my re-election than any other one thing; because my Heavenly Father has said that He would show mercy to those who themselves showed mercy, and my people, my friends all over the state when I would give my reasons for pardoning would holler 'Well done,' and when I would say, 'I am not done yet,' in defiance of the Cuban mixed breeds and others of a like stripe, my friends would holler back, 'Turn them out, go on boy, you are right.'

"On the 27th day of August, 1912, they proceeded to turn out of your body and out of the house of representatives many of those who had been loud-mouthed hollerers, 'pardoning too many people,' and some had the change form, or profess to have done so, to keep also from going out.

"I said on the stump, 'If you don't want people pardoned, don't sign petitions, for if proper petitions are presented, I am going to turn more out and you can't help it.'

"Still Doing Business."

"I am still doing business at room No. 1 statehouse, Columbia, S. C., and though it hurts some folks mighty bad, they can't help it."

Replying to his critics he says in part, "When the matter was presented to the people as a body, being a Christian people, they slapped the faces of those who from a malicious heart or political prejudices had maligned the governor, and said to him, 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant, thou shall be our ruler for two more years,' and the other crowd sneaked into their holes and hollered, 'Fraud, fraud,' and appointed a little committee to investigate, and the little committee, although very brazen at first, laid down their arms, quietly sneaked off to their homes and said, 'Nothing doing,' and the whole crowd feels happier and meaner than if they had abided, as good democrats should do, by the majority and not made a laughing stock of themselves not only in their own state, but outside of it.

"Some people may say this is harsh language—that I ought not to use it—yet the newspapers, notwithstanding the fact that after the primary election I sat quietly, said nothing and took all that was heaped upon me, continued their abuse, their vituperation and their slanders, and published with great headlines and great glee the misapprehension of a speech made in Richmond, Va.

Slaps Newspapers.

"Day after day they carried articles copied from yankee hoodlums and little newspaper pimps, and then when they were furnished with numbers of papers and offered hundreds of telegrams and letters commending the course of the governor of South Carolina, they absolutely failed and refused to publish them, and when other papers speak of the governor in disrespectful terms, without either saying 'Mister' or 'Governor,' but headline 'Blease,' for which I care nothing, because the people of the state have shown the newspapers that they make asses of themselves when they pray and re-elect to office those whom they fire out.

"I am proud that I have been able to extend this mercy to my fellow man, because it was right that it should have been done. It was my duty to do it, and for these two reasons alone I did it regardless of consequences or results."

MOB LAW AS CHECK FOR MISCEGENATION

Practically Advocated by Roddenbery.

Georgian Tells Congress of Hideous Wedding.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, January 30.—(Special.) Representative Roddenbery, of Georgia, in a speech in the house today, urged the passage of his resolution to amend the federal constitution to prevent the marriage of whites and blacks. He told a pathetic story of the marriage in Niles, Mich., recently of Helen E. Hanson, a 15-year-old white girl, and George F. Thompson, a negro of 42.

Mr. Roddenbery declared that the marriage ceremony was performed by Charles Ager, "a minister of the gospel—a white minister, at that, who ought to be tarred and feathered and put into exile."

The southern congressman waved above his head a copy of the marriage certificate of the couple, and quoted from newspaper reports of the marriage, which recounted revolting details.

Mob Law for Such Cases.

"My God," shouted Mr. Roddenbery, "that the laws of any civilized state will permit a bestial brute to have sanctioned by law his wedlock to such a child! Thompson is being held in the county jail pending the outcome of the child's injuries. He is formally charged with abduction.

"As abhorrent as mob law is, men who are human can be tempted beyond endurance. I appeal for the laws of states to prevent these dangers and outrages."

"I don't know what they will do about this case in Michigan," cried Mr. Roddenbery, "but, by God, I know what they would do in Georgia. No jail in my section of the country would be strong enough to hold that nigger."

Mr. Roddenbery recalled the fact that a few weeks ago he addressed the house on the subject of the marriage of Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, to Lucille Cameron, a white girl, in Chicago.

"It was then said by members of the house that the case was an isolated one," said the Georgian. "This repulsive character of marriage, however, is a common occurrence. I hold here the certificate of this recent marriage, and upon it there appears the gentle hand of a white woman and the strong hand of a white man. Each upraised with fingers touching each other over an open Bible. This particular certificate is a defamation of the book of Holy Writ and bears testimony of the hideous marriage of an enfeebled white child to a demon and a brute. How long will it be before the states by law will prohibit such marriages? I am happy to note that in Kansas last week a law was passed forever outlawing marriage between whites and blacks."

Details of the Marriage.

Mr. Roddenbery related the circumstances of the marriage between Thompson and the Hanson girl. He said it took place at Niles, Mich., on January 13. He added: "The certificate is signed by witnesses and underwritten by Charles Ager, a minister of the gospel—a white minister, at that—who ought to be tarred and feathered and put into exile. Thompson took the girl from Hammond, Ind., arriving at Niles at 4:30 in the morning. He concealed the child in a hotel in the railroad district of Niles. He then visited a justice of the peace and asked him to perform the ceremony. Thompson, who was a widower, saw the child only two weeks before. She performed clerical work in a grocery store owned by her mother. The brute was attracted to the child and bought her candy and ribbons. Finally he induced her to leave her home, and kept her all night. He later lured her to Niles, where the marriage was performed.

"Gentlemen, it passes my understanding that this black brute who abducted this child, bound her in wedlock, and after outraging her, left her dying, could ever find lodgment in a jail or be confined in police barracks. Abhorrent as mob law is, men who are human can be tempted beyond endurance.

"I appeal to the states to pass laws that will prevent these outrages. Let the people of the several states cry out to their legislatures to protect by law our weak, helpless and unfortunate against this brutality that cannot but impair our civilization and lead finally to violence and vengeance that all lovers of law and order would deplore. If the states refuse to do this, I think we had better amend the constitution as I have proposed."

"LIVE LIKE KING," ADVISES DR. LEE

"We, the People, Own Everything" Hears Delighted Audience.

"Let us live like princes and potentates, as if we own the railroads, the street car systems, the world-wide news-gathering organizations and all the other mighty mechanisms of the universe," says Dr. James W. Lee, "and in this happy attitude we can live in perfect unison with each other, following the laws of nature which we find around us, and we can all be happy."

This was the idealistic philosophy with which Dr. Lee first startled and then delighted a large audience at the Cable hall Thursday night in his lecture on "The Function of Ethics in the Enrichment of Life." This was the second of a series of addresses planned for Atlanta by the committee on ethical lectures, and the hall was filled with people of culture of many different shades of religious belief. As M. H. Wilensky expressed it in introducing Dr. Lee, "All beliefs unite in the field of social ethics in one united religion."

Theory of Universal Brotherhood.

Dr. Lee expounded this theory of a universal social brotherhood in a strong and forceful style. He declared that man's life is affected to an almost overwhelming extent by the life of the world around him; that there are inexorable laws in the universe to which man must be a slave if he would be happy, but that by living in obedience to these laws and by keeping himself in unison with the thought and tendency of the thousands of people around him any man can attain happiness.

"There are people in China picking tea leaves for me today," said Dr. Lee. "There are others growing coffee for me in Brazil. Thousands of men scattered over the world are gathering and recording the news at a cost of $16,000,000 a day and bringing it to my door for 2 cents. We can ride anywhere in a great city on this street car system we own, simply giving the conductor a tip of 5 cents. We, the people, own everything. Ought we not to be happy?

The Weak Affect the Mass.

"In the complexity of the world the happiness of the weakest affects to a degree the happiness of the mass. Animals grow strong by destroying the weak, but men grow strong by lifting up and brightening the lives of those weaker than themselves. Human beings are members one of another. When the poorest member is trodden under foot or thrown aside in poverty and wretchedness, the whole body of mankind aches. The highest and most important function of ethics, then, is to be performed in the direction of the democratic principles, which is the principle of enrichment, not merely for the few, but for all.

"It is the function of ethics to develop the feeling in everyone that he is a brother to the weak. It is the function of ethics to make all who come under its control and guidance so radiant and attractive that a lonely dog, meeting them on the street, would feel himself in the presence of friends he could follow."

Compliment to Atlanta Negro School.

In the course of his address Dr. Lee touched on the race problem, saying that he believed that the south is handling the question at present far better than the north. The people of the south know how to treat the negroes in order to get friendship and service out of them at the same time, he said, and the best solution lies in the continuance of the industrial education which is now being established.

Dr. Lee paid high compliment to the work of R. D. Stinson, head of the large negro school in Atlanta, and said that he hoped the people of this section would continue to give large support and encouragement to this work.

You Should Enjoy Your Meals

One of the Most Important Questions to Consider in the Search for Happiness and Health.

If your stomach cannot digest your food, what will? Where's the relief? The answer is in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, because, as all stomach troubles arise from indigestion and because one ingredient of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is able to thoroughly and completely digest 3,000 grains of food, doesn't it stand to reason that these tablets are going to digest all the food and whatever food you put into your stomach?

You Can Eat With the Appetite of a Lusty Youngster, if You Help Your Stomach.

Science nowadays can digest food without having it enter the stomach at all. And Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the result of this scientific discovery. They digest and digest thoroughly and well, anything and everything you eat.

The burning question to you is, "Are you getting out of life all the pleasure and the health you are entitled to?" If not, why not?

No matter whether every organ and member of your body is in a sound state of health and strength, if your stomach is in any way disordered, you are not going to be "yourself." You are going to be a worried, out-of-sorts, nervous or sullen individual, whose actions will reflect your condition inside, and people will naturally avoid you.

So, if your stomach refuses to work or can't work, and you suffer from eructations, bloat, brash, fermentation, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn, irritation, indigestion, or dyspepsia of whatever form, just take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and see the difference. It doesn't cost you much to prove it. Then you can eat all you want, what you want, whenever you want, if you use these tablets, and you can look the whole world in the face with a beaming eye and you will have a cheerful spirit, a pleasant face, a vigorous body and a clear mind and memory and everything will look and taste delicious to you. That's life.

Get a 50-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store.

CHILDREN KILLED BY RATTLESNAKE

While Mother Was Trying to Save Two Little Ones Third Child Was Drowned.

Jacksonville, Fla., January 30.—A horrible tragedy occurred in the Rolesson family on the banks of the Suwannee river in Lafayette county, Wednesday afternoon, when three children met death, two from snake bite, the third from drowning.

Mrs. Rolesson sent her little boy to deliver a message, but before the child had gone very far his screams attracted the mother, who, busy with her baby, sent a younger child to ascertain the trouble. Presently the screams of the second child attracted the mother, who put her baby on the floor and ran to their assistance. As she approached she saw a rattlesnake sinking its fangs into the smaller child.

After beating away the snake Mrs. Rolesson gathered the children in her arms and started for home, where both died within a few minutes. In the meantime the baby, left at home alone, fell into a tub of water and was drowned.

UNION IS URGED IN MARKETING

Farmers Are Advised to Co-operate in the Sale of the Products.

Columbia, S. C., January 30.—Farmers were urged to adopt more scientific methods in marketing their crops by several speakers at the fifth National Corn Exposition today. Tillers of the soil, it was declared, are the only class of people who do not put a price on their products, but are forced to accept whatever terms are offered. As a remedy for this alleged evil it was suggested that farmers should co-operate in the direction of regulating the supply so as to stimulate the demand.

It was national farmers' union day at the exposition, and the annual midwinter conference of the organization convened at the grounds. Among the prominent speakers were: Clarence Poe, Raleigh; J. D. Eggleston, Washington, chief of field service in rural education of the United States bureau of education; Dr. Bradford Knapp, Colonel E. J. Watson, commissioner of Agriculture in South Carolina; L. M. Rhodes, president of the Tennessee farmers' union; E. W. Dabbs, president of the South Carolina farmers' union; Charles S. Barrett, president of the national farmers' union.

Sir Horace Plunkett, Irish leader of agricultural reform, was unavoidably prevented from attending the exposition. He is expected to deliver an address tomorrow, which will be celebrated as "educational day." Among the speakers tomorrow is Walter H. Page, editor of the World's Work, New York.

Saturday will be especially marked by the visit of James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, and the members of the house committee on agriculture, under the leadership of Chairman Lamb.

The principal awards today were the sweepstakes events in wheat. G. W. Demming, of Fairmont, Neb., won the grand champion sweepstakes. Mr. Demming also won the national sweepstakes for hard wheat, while John E. Potts, of Rea, Mo., won the national sweepstakes in soft wheat. J. F. Pollard, of Greenville, N. C., won the grand champion sweepstakes in soy beans, and Engertson Brother, of Lake Park, Minn., in flax.

"SWAT THE FLY" CRUSADE SPREADS THROUGH WORLD

Washington, January 30.—The "swat the fly" movement that swept the United States last year, and which incidentally swept out of existence several millions of those disease carriers, apparently is spreading throughout the world. Dr. Arthur L. Murray, health officer of the District of Columbia, who was active in directing the campaign against the fly here, has been in receipt of letters from the capitals of various countries asking for information and the best means of enlisting the aid of school children. One of these letters, received today, was from Baroness Aletta Korff, of Helsingfors, Finland, an American woman, who proposes to inaugurate the movement there.

THREE SMUGGLED GIRLS ARE TAKEN FROM DEN

San Francisco, January 30.—Seven barred doors and a secret entrance through a four-foot wall of masonry fell today before the battering rams of government immigration inspectors, who took three Chinese girls from a den in underground Chinatown. The girls had been smuggled ashore from a steamer by a Tong leader. The jealousy of a rival Tong member, who watched the search from a safe distance, led to the finding of the girls, who will be deported.

Anniversarian Chosen.

Athens, Ga., January 30.—Jack Lance, of Young Harris, has been chosen in competitive contest as anniversarian for the Demosthenian literary society of the University of Georgia. His subject is "The Problem of Unrest." The exercises will be held on February 21—a date midway between the actual anniversary of the founding of the Demosthenian and the Phi Kappa societies. The Phi Kappa anniversarian will be chosen in a few days. The alternate to Mr. Lance is H. L. Rogers, of Reidsville. Mr. Lance is a former Emory student, coming to Georgia after completing his junior year at the Oxford institution.

Buy Marietta Drug Store.

Marietta, Ga., January 30.—(Special.) C. A. Wikle and Doyle P. Butler have bought out the W. A. Sams drug store and will take charge of it about February 10. Both these are well-known men, thoroughly prepared to run the big business they have bought. Mr. Wikle has been engaged in the business for some years under the name of Wikle-Hodges Drug company. Mr. Butler is a graduate of the Atlanta Medical college. Mr. Sams will go to Athens, where he will enter business in a different line.

She Wants Marriage Annulled

Washington, January 30.—Mrs. Constance Lee De Pastor filed suit in the district supreme court here today for the annullment of her marriage to Louis De Pastor, ambassador of Spain to China and Siam. The De Pastors were married in Baltimore in 1906, when De Pastor was attache of the Spanish legation in Washington and Constance Lee was a Virginia belle. De Pastor accepted service here today and the court ordered the papers sealed.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR SENDING FIFTH

Money Almost in Sight for Inauguration Trip---Committees Meet Today.

At the close of Thursday's canvass for money to send the Fifth regiment to Washington to Governor Woodrow Wilson's inauguration as president of the United States, the leaders in the campaign expressed themselves pleased over the prospects for raising the fund. With some small contributions in addition to the money in sight, it is believed that the regiment can take the trip.

The fifteen committees appointed by Forrest Adair, as chairman, will meet in chamber of commerce hall Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock and wind up the campaign by the appointment of a committee to go before the meeting of the finance committee of council next Monday and urge the appropriation of the $2,000 for which it has been asked.

Meanwhile Adjutant General J. Van Holt Nash takes this occasion as timely to clear up some false impressions under which the public seems to be laboring. Says General Nash in a communication to The Constitution:

General Nash's Statement.

I look at this matter from a different viewpoint possibly than that of the laymen; however, I attribute the apparent apathy on the part of the public generally to a mistaken impression that seems to have pervaded the discussion and gone abroad as true, that this proposed trip of the national guard to Washington is to be nothing but a holiday or junket gotten up by them for their own benefit, when in fact the movement did not originate with the guard, but with the merchants of this city of ours to advertise Atlanta before the nation. If the troops are sent to perform this duty, what will be required of them? They will be called upon to make many personal sacrifices, to say nothing of leaving their business interests and their families, as they will be required to go under the strictest military discipline, and upon arrival in Washington parade many miles, carrying heavy guns and equipment, possibly through sleet, rain, slush and snow, returning to their home stations immediately after the inaugural ceremonies.

Do you call that fun? Well, I don't for I have tried it and know whereof I speak.

Now, just a word concerning the national guard as an organization, and I am through:

Every well informed citizen knows, without further comment, the necessity for and the usefulness of the citizen soldiery, but very few stop to analyze the motives or precepts of the command and the inducements offered young men to become members.

The purpose of the national guard is to preserve law and order and protect life and property, that our citizens may enjoy fully that freedom and safety granted by the constitution of our country. That they perform this duty well is proven in the daily press reports.

The inducements to join the national guard are meager in the extreme. There is not one cent of pay given, and the appropriations made are sadly inadequate to meet the requirements. The organization, therefore, relies solely upon that patriotism and innate militant quality that lies within the breast of every true man; they come thus, of their own free will, asking nothing in return; willing to sacrifice all, even life itself, for the common good, and for what? To protect you and your property. I speak to the merchants particularly.

The exercise and training acquired in the national guard are clean, healthful and beneficial to mind and body, and many valuable qualities gained from this association tend toward making a well-rounded and better citizen in every respect.

Therefore, I say these troops are entitled to your respect and support. The day of the tin soldier has passed, and you will feel honored and lift your hat with pride and cheer when you see the Georgia boys pass up Pennsylvania avenue on the historic and democratic occasion, March 4, 1913, marching to the stirring refrain of "Dixie." Send them to Washington; it's money well spent, and will bring its return in civic pride and in many other ways.

Well-Known Soldier Will Be Commissioned by Governor Next Week.

Announcement was made in the office of Adjutant General J. Van Holt Nash Thursday afternoon that upon the return of Governor Brown from Augusta, where he is participating in the dedication of the new buildings of the medical department of the University of Georgia, Major Joseph F. Burke, of Atlanta, will be commissioned to succeed as aide de camp upon the governor's staff Lieutenant Colonel H. M. Atwater, of Thomaston, Ga., who was recently placed upon the retired list.

Major Burke is one of the most widely known men in the state in military circles, although he has not been connected with the militia since the passage of the Dick bill, establishing the present organization of the national guard in 1903. Major Burke, however, not only has an enviable record for his service in the old militia, but also has to his credit an illustrious career as a soldier and officer in the confederate army during the civil war. He was for many years an active officer in the old Gate City Guards, and has always been an ardent supporter of the military organizations of Atlanta.

TWELVE CRACKERS STILL OUT OF THE FOLD

Edited by DICK JEMISON

TWELVE CRACKERS STILL UNSIGNED

Bill Still After Dunn---Claim Being Pressed Against New York Club.

Twelve Crackers still remain out of the fold. Not a signed contract has been received at local baseball headquarters since Saturday last.

"I guess these fellows must be using the contracts for pillows," said Manager Smith Thursday afternoon. "I have not received a kick from a single one of them, and all I can see is that they are just taking their time about signing."

The players still out of the fold are Pitchers Brady, Donnelly, Weaver and Musser, Catchers Graham and Malcolmson, Infielders Smith, DoBard and Keating, and Outfielders Sisson and Long.

The contracts of Brady and Weaver were routed to the wrong place, the two players having moved from the address that was first given to Manager Smith, and the local mogul had to forward them to the new address. Long's and Musser's were not mailed out at the same time as the others, hence the delay in these being returned signed.

Manager Billy Smith has not given up the hope of landing Joe Dunn, the Mobile catcher. Reports from Mobile are to the effect that Dunn can purchase his own release if he so desires. It is understood that Dunn will confer with Billy before proceeding further in the matter.

The case of the Atlanta club against the New York Americans in regard to Coleman, the infielder who never reported here last season after Atlanta had purchased him from the Yankees, is still pending before the national commission.

President Callaway wrote the commission a few days ago, outlining all the contentions of the local club, and is daily expecting a decision on the case.

It is strictly up to the national commission to make the New York club refund money to the Crackers for Coleman's services. How they can rule in favor of the Yanks in this instance cannot be seen, though there is likely to be some favoritism shown, as it is a minor league club against a major, and the majors get all the plums as a usual thing in such a case.

The sporting department is in receipt of a letter from J. Hammond Reynolds, the big receiver of the Crackers last season. Reynolds announces himself fit and ready for the season to open, and would like it if today was opening day.

"I expect to have a good year," says Reynolds.

TIGERS BOAST OF STRONG TEAM

Frank Dobson's Clemson Tigers will play the Atlanta Athletic club at the club's gymnasium on Auburn avenue on Saturday night.

Clemson boasts this year of having one of the best college basketball teams ever turned out in the south if reports of their victories in the Carolinas are any evidence.

Dobson is a past master at the game and has the happy faculty of imparting his knowledge to the men under his charge. If he has imparted half of his knowledge to his boys this year the Clemson team will be one that will give the club just as much as they can handle.

Three games remain to be played after the game on Saturday. The Birmingham Athletic club team plays here February 8, Mercer university February 15 and Columbus Young Men's Christian association Washington's birthday.

LOCAL SOCCERS TO BIRMINGHAM

The Atlanta soccer football club will leave here tonight for Birmingham, Ala., where they play an all-star aggregation of that city on Saturday.

The local eleven is in excellent shape and are confident of bringing the scalp of the Barons back to this city.

THORPE IS PROPERTY OF FAYETTEVILLE CLUB

Chicago, January 30.—Managers of baseball teams who have been telegraphing and writing James Thorpe, the Indian athlete, for his terms, may begin again as Thorpe, it was announced tonight by President Johnson, of the American league, is not a free agent.

Thorpe is under contract with the Fayetteville, N. C., club, and it will be necessary to negotiate for his release through the owner of that club.

President Johnson received this information in a telegram from Secretary Farrell, of the national association.

In 1910 Thorpe signed a contract with the Rocky Mount, N. C., club at $125 a month. Later he was transferred to Fayetteville, and reserved by that club.

GEORGIA PREP SCHOOLS WILL ORGANIZE ON SATURDAY

Permanent organization of the Georgia Interscholastic Athletic association, an organization to band the prep schools of the state of Georgia in working harmony on the same basis as the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association, will be effected at a meeting of the schools interested on Saturday night at the Young Men's Christian association building.

Gordon institute at Barnesville, University School for Boys at Stone Mountain, Riverside Military academy at Gainesville and the Locust Grove institute at Locust Grove have already signified their intention of entering the organization.

Nothing has been heard from the Georgia Military college at Milledgeville, Ga. but it is to be hoped that they will have a representative at the meeting tomorrow night and lend their support to the p ification of prep athletics in the state.

A proposed constitution and by-laws will be submitted to the meeting, officers elected and permanent organization perfected. It seems to be the wish of the majority of the proposed members that the stringent rules set forth in the by-laws shall be put into effect at once.

With th organization of this association prep school athletics will be raised to the high standard that they deserve and all professionalism a bone of contention among the schools in the past will be barred.

Donald Fraser plays Peacock on the latter's campus, and Boys' High School plays Georgia Military Academy on the latter's court.

YAMA QUINTET PLAYS MERCER

Macon, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—Mercer's basketball team expects a fast and difficult game when they meet the "Yama" basketball team, of Atlanta, here Saturday night. The fact that the Baptists only managed to scrape out a 25 to 21 victory recently over Wesley Memorial team, of Atlanta, and that the "Yamas" won out recently over them makes the college quintet feel that they will have to exert themselves to keep the Gate City lads from taking home their scalps.

In passing the ball, as well as in ability to spot the baskets, the Mercer five has grown stronger since meeting Wesley Memorial, and should be ripe to give their opponents as fast a game as they can return.

Two humming games are expected when the local college team meets the University of Tennessee next week and a few days later takes on the Auburn five.

YOUNG ACCEPTS PRIES' CHALLENGE

Isaac Watchman, "Kid Young," has accepted the challenge of Myer Pries, printed in The Constitution a few days ago, and is willing to bet $50 on his chances to win over Pries.

Henry Norton, promoter of the Dixie Athletic club, will hang up a purse of $50 for the two boys to battle for provided the boys put up a side bet of $50 on themselves.

If this bout is eventually staged it should be a corker, especially if the two bet on their own chances to win.

CLEMSON QUINTET PLAYS GEORGIA

Athens, Ga., January 30.—(Special.) The University of Georgia basketball team will play Clemson college here Friday night.

Local basketball fans are expecting a close game, as the Tigers have been winning with regularity throughout the Carolinas.

Only one game was played in the Fulton league last night, the advertised game between S. V. D. and the Baracas having been called off at the last moment.

The Y. M. C. A. had little difficulty in defeating the Agoga team, winning 34 to 13. The association team held the Agogas to one field goal in the first half. The Y. M. C. A. scored 14 points in the first half and 20 in the second.

Harry Villiard, who was shifted from forward to guard, for Y. M. C. A., proved to be the star of the game. Sam Cook's guarding was a feature.

This game practically settles the race so far as divisions are concerned, the S. V. D., Company C, and Y. M. C. A. teams having clinched the three first division berths.

The line-up and score:

AGOGAS (13).	Positions.	Y. M. C. A. (34).

Boston, January 30.—President-elect Wilson today notified the international committee that the winner's cup in this year's German-American Sonder yacht races might be presented in his name. Hirsig Protests On Cutting Down By Opening Day

Nashville President Joins Other Southern League Moguls Against New Rule.

The Southern league managers and club owners are protesting vehemently against the recent ruling of the national commission that all clubs in the class A division must cut down to the player and salary limit by opening day of the season.

Bill Smith was the first to raise a howl about this rule, but Bill is not alone in his contention that such a rule will work a hardship with the managers of every club in the league, the time between reporting date and the opening season not being deemed sufficient to try out a promising youngster.

President Hirsig, of the Nashville club, is the latest to come out flat-footed against the rule. He says:

"This will put our clubs at a decided disadvantage, and Nashville will suffer especially if we have another rainy spring, as was the case last year. Manager Schwartz was unable to give all of his youngsters a proper trial in 1912, although he had thirty days in which to do so and may have more trouble this season. However, the rule cannot be evaded and it is as fair for one as it is for another.

"The rule will mean that many promising young players must be cut loose without a trial. It will be impossible for the manager to look over all the material and pick out the best by the time the season opens. Schwartz is anxious to pay particular attention to his new men this spring, since he turned several good ones loose last year."

PENNANT RACE IS NARROWING DOWN

Athletics, Wesley and Fifth Regiment Will Fight It Out.

CLUBS—	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Atlanta Athletic Club	5	1	.883
Wesley Memorial	6	2	.750
Fifth Regiment	5	2	.715
Y. M. C. A.	3	3	.500
Knights of Columbus	3	3	.500

Result last night: Wesley Memorial 40, Y. M. C. A., 14.

By Ogle Grice.

After last night's game in the Atlanta league, which was played at the Wesley Memorial court, it is shown that the pennant race is between the Atlanta Athletic club, Wesley Memorial and the Fifth regiment.

Tech, which has lost ten games by forfeit, the Y. M. C. A. and the Knights of Columbus, which teams have been snowed under in the last few games, are now completely out of the race.

The Atlanta Athletic club has a small lead over Wesley Memorial at present, with Wesley leading the Fifth by a very small margin.

The game between the Young Men's Christian association and Wesley Memorial was a finish fight, Wesley coming out with the honors by scoring 40 points, while the Y. M. C. A. scored not half that many—14.

Wesley Memorial Kept Lead.

Starting with a rush, Wesley maintained a lead throughout, and at the end of the first half was 16 to 7. The Y. M. C. A. scored another 7 points in the second half, and Wesley 24, all from field goals.

Dave Clayton, Y. M. C. A., and Manard Fuller, of Wesley, shot some sensational goals. The guarding of the Wesley team was the feature of the game. Gilbert, Wesley's center, blocked a large number of passes.

The line-up and score:

WESLEY (40).	Positions.	Y. M. C. A. (14).
A. Jones (6)	Reft Forward	E. M. Jones (6)
Rhody (16)	Left Forward	Clayton (7)
Gilbert (6)	Center	Wooten
Graves (6)	Right Guard	Dockstader (1)
Fuller (6)	Left Guard	Hall

Summary—Field goals, Wesley 20, Y. M. C. A. 4; foul goals, Y. M. C. A. 6. Referee, Blanchard.

WESLEY MEMORIAL PLAYS IN LAGRANGE

The Wesley Memorial team, of the Atlanta basketball league, will take a trip to LaGrange Saturday to play an all-star aggregation from that city.

Swiss and French Coming.

Washington, January 30.—Switzerland will send a rifle team to the international matches to be held at Camp Perry, Ohio, in September, notwithstanding reports to the contrary, according to advices received today by the National Rifle Association of America. Word also has been received that France will send a team to take part in the matches. Owing to the fact that Canada's dates for its local matches will conflict with the international matches, that country will not send a team to America to compete for the "Palma" trophy.

PHILHARMONIC WORKS FOR GUARANTEE FUND

The officers of the Atlanta Philharmonic orchestra, under the leadership of its president, Mrs. J. M. Slaton, will begin at once a campaign to raise by public subscription a fund of $10,000 to place the orchestra upon firm financial basis. Their plan is to secure donations of $100 each from 100 individuals. Of this number, 36 have already been found and the enthusiasm with which the organization has been greeted in Atlanta leads them to believe that the remainder will be readily forthcoming.

"Lincoln's Double" Dead.

Waterville, Maine, January 30.—The Rev. George Dana Boardman Pepper, former president of Colby college, and known as "Lincoln's double," died here today, aged 80 years. Mr. Pepper in his early days was often mistaken for Lincoln. He was born in Ware, Mass., and was widely known as a theologian.

CHAMBER WATCHES SMOKE ABATEMENT

Atlanta Chamber of Commerce Takes Liberal View But Will Not Relax Activities.

Having taken the initiative in the matter of abating the smoke evil in Atlanta, the Atlanta chamber of commerce does not propose in any sense to relax its activities, but will lend every reasonable effort, not only to the enforcement, but to the ultimate strengthening of the ordinance.

The members of the committee feel that valuable and important progress has already been made, and that it is better to try out the ordinance as it now stands than to endeavor to make its provisions any more rigid at this time.

When it is considered that ten of the largest manufacturing plants in the city have already expended about $25,550 for the purpose of abating smoke, and that nineteen others are now engaged in making similar arrangements to enable them to comply with the requirements of the ordinance, the committee feels that much important progress has been made.

There has been some criticism of the Atlanta ordinance on the ground that where it allows dense smoke twelve minutes in the hour, the ordinances of other cities have an eight-minute limit. The committee carefully considered this point and decided to make the provision as liberal as possible for the first year, having it in view to ask council to change the requirement in this respect later on when the managements or the plants affected and the public as well have become better educated on the subject.

It is the purpose of the chamber to keep the matter carefully in view and to work, as conditions will permit it, for the ultimate elimination of smoke from Atlanta's atmosphere.

The committee which has this particular work in charge is composed of J. M. Van Harlingen, chairman; Hal F. Hentz, A. TenEyck Brown, W. R. B. Whittler, A. M. Schoen, J. N. Hazlehurst, S. N. Evins, R. M. Walker, Chauncey Smith, H. Clay Moore, Mell R. Wilkinson and Charles A. Wickersham.

FORMER SENATOR BERRY SUMMONED BY DEATH

Bentonville, Ark., January 30.—James H. Berry, former United States senator and governor of Arkansas, died at his home here today after an illness of several weeks.

Mr. Herry, who was 72 years old, began his career as a school teacher. He was admitted to the practice of law in 1866 and after serving two terms as a member of the state legislature was elected governor in 1882. He was elected United States senator in 1884 and served one term.

Mr. Berry had not taken an active part in public affairs for some years except as a member of the commission appointed by President Taft to mark the graves of confederate soldiers who died in northern prisons during the civil war. At the time of his death he held the rank of major general in command of the Arkansas division, United Confederate Veterans.

6,100 MEN IN NEW YORK CONTROL 26,000 WOMEN

New York, January 30.—With his evidence reduced to the matter of fact form of a card index, Samuel H. London, formerly prosecuting attorney of El Paso, Texas, who said he was semi-officially connected with the department of justice at Washington, has laid before the aldermanic committee investigating police conditions here, the result of his seven years' study of white slave traffic.

He called New York the capital of commercial vice and said that with the assistance of fourteen agents placed at his disposal by the government he had carried on investigations "from Fairbanks in Alaska, to the canal zone."

He declared that his census in New York revealed that there were 6,100 men profiting from commercialized vice, in which 26,000 women were involved. He charged that the police often aided the traffickers. He believed that only individual politicemen were concerned in the business and doubted that the number of these officers would exceed 100 out of 10,000 men on the force.

OHIO SOCIETY TO HOLD BANQUET IN FEBRUARY

One hundred and fifty members of the Ohio society will gather for a banquet some time during February. This was decided on at a meeting held last night by the executive committee of the society, in Will Young's office in the Empire building. The exact time and date of the banquet will be selected later. It is probable that several out-of-town guests will be present at the banquet, and a program of toasts and speeches will be arranged.

NEGRO IS LYNCHED BY MISSISSIPPI MOB

Drew, Miss., January 30.—An unidentified negro, accused of complicity in the killing of a white han at the town of Goldfield last month, was taken from a passenger train near Drew early today by a mob and hanged to a telegraph pole. The deputy sheriff who had the negro in charge was overpowered.

26 MAN-KILLERS SAVED BY GOVERNOR DENEEN

Springfield, Ill., January 30.—Twenty-six men convicted of murder were today granted commutations of sentence by retiring Governor Deneen, on recommendation of the state board of pardons.

New Orleans Carnival.

New Orleans, January 30.—Momus, Son of Night, tonight opened the 1913 carnival season with a parade and ball. The pageant of seventeen floats, the subject of which was "Beyond the Clouds," was given a modern touch with floats entitled "Suffragettes of Saturn," "Joy Riders of Neptune," etc. The illuminated downtown streets were jammed with spectators.

Evans Is Funnier Than Ever; That's Saying a Great Deal

By Sidney Ormond.

When I inform you that that eminent critic of black face performances, Lucian York, sat in front of me at George Evans' minstrels last night and laughed so continuously and explosively that he sounded like a motorcycle going up grade I am quite sure you will agree with me that the last word has been said, and that so far as any further good I can do the Honey Boy I might as well go home to a much-needed rest.

However, there are some few people in the city of Atlanta and contiguous territory who are not personally acquainted with Mr. York, and know not of the intimate personal relations which have existed between him and every minstrel man who has been to Atlanta since George Primrose was a boy.

For the benefit of these few, therefore, it is perhaps just as well that I say a few well-chosen words on my own hook.

When George Evans was here last year I did not see how it was possible for a man to be funnier. In one sense I was right. No one else could be funnier. But the George Evans of this year is far funnier than the George Evans of last season. He set a pace last night that was so swift one almost wished he would stop for a moment to allow one to recover from the effects of over-laughing. One joke followed another with the rapid fire of a machine gun. And they were good jokes, too—the kind you seldom hear on the minstrel stage.

But it wouldn't be at all necessary for George Evans to say a word. As long as he possesses those intensely eloquent legs his meal ticket is assured even though he be struck deaf, dumb and blind. It isn't often that a regular male human being confesses he would pay real money to see a man's legs, but I am strictly within the bounds of truth when I state that I heard this admission made on many sides last night.

There is not half enough space at my command to say all the nice things about George Evans' show that I would like to say. The best I can do is to hit it in high spots.

If I were a real minstrel critic like Bill Sharpe or Jim Lynch or Lucian York I'd go into all the intricacies of the first part. But I am not, and will simply say that the singing was excellent and the fun of John King and Sam Lee immense.

A feature of the second part which caused howls of merriment was the eccentric dancing of Raymond Maxson. Maxson might be likened to a human slide trombone. His lugubrious costume added to the effect of his peculiar art.

In this part George Evans, in the comical role of General Woof Woof, who is to be a guest of the Golightly Guards, starts something he has difficulty in finishing—for it looked for a time as if the applause would prevent him! Some one announces in Evans' presence that "war has broken out."

"What," he exclaims in consternation, "not all the way out!"

That is just a sample. One witticism follows another until one's sides hurt from laughing.

It's a great show and the man who doesn't enjoy it is to be pitied.

P. S.—I was just about to put a period to this inadequate story when my old friend Willard Patterson, of the Grand opera house, called up to assure me it was the greatest show he ever saw. That's some praise, if I am any judge of praise in this rock-throwing age of ours.

There will be two more night performances and a matinee Saturday.

Weber and Fields.

(At the Atlanta.)

Seats are now selling at the Atlanta theater for the engagement of Weber & Fields and their all-star company, which takes place Tuesday and Wednesday with a Wednesday matinee. Though the demand has been heavy, hundreds of good seats remain for each performance. The engagement has attracted interest all over the state and many out-of-town orders have been received. The Weber & Fields company includes Joe Weber, Lew Fields, Frank Daniels, Bessie Clayton, Mae Boley, Flavia Acaro, Walter Lawrence, Edouard Durant, Arthur Alyasworth and fifty of the noted Weber-Fields beauty chorus girls. The company travels on a special train and is the largest and most expensive ever sent through the south.

"Where the Trail Divides."

(At the Lyric.)

Enthusiastic audiences have witnessed Robert Edeson's sterling melodrama, "Where the Trail Divides," this week at the Lyric. The play is one that appeals to all classes of theatergoers and holds the interst of the audience from start to finish. The engagement so far has been most successful and three large audiences are promised for the remainder of the week.

Norman Hackett.

(At the Lyric.)

Norman Hackett, the popular young star, will be seen at the Lyric theater for the first time in this city next week, starting Monday night, in the title role that of a young minister, the Rev. Harry Sanderson. The plot of the play frolicks around a psychological fact or mistaken identity. There is a remarkable resemblance between Hugh Stires, son of one of Aniston's leading figures, and Henry Sanderson. In college life they were chums; it was there that Sanderson earned the sobriquet of "Satan" through his escapades and dare-devilishness.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Grand.)

Quite an army of people has attended the performances at the Grand this week. There are two intensely interesting playlets, one of the most daring sensational novelty acts that theatergoers can recall, a delightful comic opera star and a monologuist that is a king laugh-winner. For next week Little Chip and Mary Marble, aided by John W. Dunne and a selected company, will headline.

"The Isle of Spice."

(At the Forsyth.)

"The Isle of Spice," the tabloid comic opera at the Forsyth, continues to interest and entertain. Those who thought it impossible to get real interesting and worth while entertainment at 10, 20 and 30 cents have learned that in these progressive days most anything is possible. The opera is being offered at daily matinee and at night at 8 and 9:30 o'clock. Next week Max Bloom with his "Sunny Side of Broadway" musical comedy, will be the attraction.

WIFE AND HUSBAND DIE RATHER THAN BE PARTED

Paris, January 30.—A double tragedy was caused here today by a doctor's ordered that a man and wife would have to be separated because the woman was suffering from an incurable disease.

The sick woman, Madame Paul Carriere, was told last night that she must go to a public hospital. Her husband then sent the children to spend the night with an uncle. When the children left, their parents were distracted with grief, and the wife expressed the wish to die rather than be sent away from her husband.

This morning they were found dead in their home, the woman strangled by her husband and the man hanging dead in a doorway.

STAR-SPANGLED BANNER OFFICIAL U. S. ANTHEM

Washington, January 30.—A joint resolution to make the "Star Spangled Banner" the official anthem of the United States was introduced today by Representative Levy, of New York. It also provides:

"That whenever the 'Star Spangled Banner' is played on any occasion, at any public place where persons belonging to any branch of the government service are present, they will stand at attention, and all other persons will stand, such positions being retained until the last note of the anthem."

Submarine Men Lost.

Key West, Fla., January 30.—The reported loss of two members of her crew was confirmed by the arrival late last night of the submarine B-2, of the United States flotilla. J. M. Campbell, first-class electrician, and L. Hurst, machinist, were swept from the bridge of the submarine Monday night when the vessel was 40 miles south of the Brunswick lightship. Ensign A. H. Gray, in command of the submarine, only escaped a similar fate by clinging to the steel rail encircling the bridge.

GUILTY OF TRYING TO OUTRAGE GIRL

Haralson Jury Finds Verdict Against B. R. Morrow, Tallapoosa Man.

Bremen, Ga., January 30.—(Special.) B. R. Morrow, a wealthy citizen of Tallapoosa, about 63 years old, who was indicted at the present term of the Haralson superior court charged with outraging a 15-year-old girl of Tallapoosa about three weeks ago, was put on trial for the crime Wednesday afternoon, was found guilty of attempted criminal assault. Both the state and defense were ably represented and a hard fight was made by both sides. The verdict was reached at 9 o'clock Tuesday night.

NO CONFIDENCE VOTED IN GERMAN GOVERNMENT

Berlin, January 30.—The German imperial parliament today passed, for the first time in its history, a vote of want of confidence in the government.

The question before the house was the approval of the government's reply to the interpellation by the chancellor by the Poles yesterday. They asked what the chancellor intended to do to "prevent the exportation of Polish land owners in Prussia by the Prussian government, a measure irreconcilable with the spirit of the imperial constitution."

The house today carried, by 212 against 97, a resolution of disapproval of Dr. Hermann Lisco's reply, in which he said the matter was a purely internal one for Prussia and had nothing to do with the imperial parliament.

The Poles, clericals and socialists formed the majority. The progressives abstained from voting.

HE LEAPED FROM TRAIN TO ESCAPE CREMATION

Stamford, Conn., January 30.—Fire broke out today in the last car of an express train speeding from Boston to New York. The express messenger pulled the emergency brake, but the mechanism failed to work, and he was unable to get word of his plight to the cars in front. Within a few minutes he was compelled to choose between death in the flames and a leap from the doorway. He jumped as the train rounded a curve at 35 miles an hour, and escaped with only slight injuries. The flames were discovered when the train stopped here and were extinguished.

SPECULATION IS RIFE OVER CANDLER'S PLANS FOR IMPROVEMENT OF HIS PEACHTREE REALTY

The picture shows Asa G. Candler's fortune in Peachtree realty, beginning at Ellis street, which rumor says he will soon improve.

What is Asa G. Candler going to do with the corner of Peachtree and Ellis streets?

To all Atlanta this question has become more tantalizing than a loose tooth!

When Mr. Candler acquired the old Capital City club property, at the northwest corner of these streets, and the old Leyden house, in the middle of the block, curiosity began to rise. When he got the title to the property at present occupied by the University club he became possessor of a continuous frontage of something more than 300 feet, and people wondered more.

Mr. Candler was beseeched of realty men and importuned by reporters to know what his plans might be, but Mr. Candler kept his counsel.

Mr. Candler says never a word, but recent developments would indicate that shortly there will be something stirring along the west side of Peachtree street, between the new Winecoff hotel and the governor's mansion. The old Capital City club building is fast disappearing at the hands of the housewreckers, and the corner will soon be in shape to build upon.

Since the demolition of this building was begun it is understood that Mr. Candler has notified the University club that he will be unable to renew to it the lease on the property, which expires next fall. Which ultimatum, likewise, takes on an onimous aspect.

Mr. Candler's holding runs back to a depth of from 250 to 300 feet and is, perhaps, the largest single holding anywhere near the center of the city. Realty experts estimate its value at about $6,000 per front foot, which represents an investment in the neighborhood of $2,000,000, bearing practically no income.

Numerous reports have gone abroad as to what sort of a structure Mr. Candler will put upon the property—In fact, rumor erects a new building on this corner nearly every week. The latest and most persistent report is that one of the largest department stores in the southern states is destined to go up on the lot and will house an eastern concern.

However, there is probably but one man in the city who really knows what Mr. Candler's plans are and—Mr. Candler won't tell.

Suffice to say, though, that it has been Mr. Candler's habit in years past to improve his property in such a permanent and handsome manner that the destined improvement would be an honor to any city.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES DAY BY DAY

ALL THE NEWS OF REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

Atlanta's building permits will increase approximately $125,000 for January over the same month last year. At the close of business Thursday afternoon permits were issued to the extent of $375,000. The total value of buildings for which permits were issued in 1912 amounted to only $295,000.

Building Inspector Ed R. Hayes stated that there was no doubt that January, 1913, will break all previous records. He says there are a number of buildings to be included in the January record before it closes Friday afternoon.

The Shelverton apartment house, at 126 East Eleventh street, will cost, according to the specifications on which a permit was issued, $67,000. It will occupy a site of 65 feet by 190 and will be a three-story brick structure.

Harry Poole, the undertaker, is to erect a $19,000 building on the site 96 South Pryor street, and W. A. Albright has a permit to erect a two-story brick veneer residence on Springdale avenue at a cost of $15,000. Mrs. W. Blackman is building a home at 215 Myrtle street at a cost of $12,000.

The Knox dwelling at 151 Euclid avenue will cost $25,000. It will be a two-story frame.

The county commissioners secured a permit to erect a $46,000 heating plant in connection with the $1,000,000 postoffice.

JAILS A BANK PRESIDENT ABOUT EVERY TEN DAYS

New York, January 30.—Every ten days since New Year's a bank president has been sent to jail from Brooklyn by Supreme Court Justice Crane. The third man he has sentenced this year is William C. Damron, former president of the Home bank, who was today given a term of one year in the penitentiary. His bank closed its doors in January, 1908, and Damron was recently found guilty of misapplying $2,500 of its funds.

The two other bank presidents sentenced are David A. Sullivan, president of the Mechanics and Traders' bank, convicted of the larceny of $20,000, and Broc R. Shears, president of the Borough bank, found guilty of misappropriating $3,000.

FALSE INVOICES USED TO ROB GOVERNMENT

New York, January 30.—On evidence gathered by the customs authorities indicating the continued under-valuation of merchandise imported from Germany in the years 1910-12, Assistant United States District Attorney Carl W. Whitney today brought suit in the federal district court against the Bardenheuer Hygienic Underwear company, doing business in this city. By the action the government seeks to recover $30,000, the amount of duties it claims to have lost through the presentation of false invoices and other papers at the custom house by the defendants.

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL OF THE MARKETS

COTTON EASIER ON LIQUIDATION

Spot Advices From South Were Less Favorable—Futures Closed Lower.

New York, January 30.—The cotton market was easier today, under liquidation or scattering pressure, which appeared to be inspired by rather less favorable spot advices from the south. Part of a forenoon loss was recovered, but the market closed barely steady and from 7 to 10 points lower.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 8 points, and in spite of rather steadier late cables the market eased off to a net loss of from 10 to 16 points during the late forenoon. January notices, estimated at a little over 10,000 bales, were said to have been issued, but while they uncovered no strong long interest, two or three of the leading spot brokers appeared to have enough January for sale to supply the requirements of scattering shorts. This fact, with tomorrow the last day of trading for January delivery, seemed reassuring to local shorts in the spring months, and following reports that spots were offering more freely in the southwest, the market became considerably easier.

Covering and a renewal of bull support checked the decline, with prices working up some 10 to 12 points from the lowest during the early afternoon, but the advance was not maintained as the market eased off again later, under renewed liquidation. Business was not particularly active at any time during the day with trading chiefly local, aside from a little scattering European and southern selling.

Further declines are reported in ocean freight rates on cotton shipments from the south for various foreign ports.

Cotton, spot closed steady; middling uplands, 13.15; do. gulf, 13.40; sales, 3,700 bales.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, January 30.—Cotton, spot steady, unchanged; middling, 12 7-16; sales on the spot, 600 bales; to arrive, 150; low ordinary, 9 1-16, nominal; ordinary, 9¾, nominal; good ordinary, 11½; strict good ordinary, 11¾; low middling, 12; strict low middling, 12¼; middling, 12 7-16; strict middling, 12⅝; good middling, 12 13-16; strict good middling, 13; middling fair, 13 7-16, nominal; middling fair, to fair, 13 13-16, nominal; fair, 14 3-16, nominal; receipts, 2,876; stock, 168,468.

Cotton futures opened steady at a decline of 2@5 points, in spite of a higher Liverpool market than due. Private messages from the English market stated that prices rallied there, on rumors of the surrender of Adrianople. Little attention was paid to this rumor on this side of the water, especially as spot firms in England and the continent sent over messages claiming that the south was offering cotton more freely and at lower prices. The market continued to fall off until at the end of the first half hour of business, prices were 6 to 10 points under yesterday's close.

Bear pressure was held on the market until, around the middle of the morning, the old crop months were 13 points under yesterday's final figures. As has been the case for several days past, the new crops were more or less neglected and did not follow the fluctuations in the near months. The short side was not aggressive and let up in its selling late in the morning, with the result that prices took a sudden spurt that landed them within a couple of points of yesterday's close on the most active months. There seemed to be no special reason for this rise, except the circulation of bullish comment by a few traders. At noon the market was down again, standing 6 to 7 points under yesterday's final quotations.

In the afternoon, the market was stagnant. At 2 o'clock prices stood 5 to 6 points under yesterday's closing level.

Cotton futures closed steady, at a net decline of 6 to 7 points.

Dry Goods.

New York, January 30.—Gray goods for covering purposes were in active demand and prices showed a firmer tendency. Domestics were quiet. Yarns were easier. Carded woolen dress goods were bought freely by the jobbing trade for the next few season.

Gibert & Clay.

New York, January 30.—Cables from Liverpool and advices from the south today stated that spot cotton was offering more freely at lower prices, with demand poor. Under these circumstances, liquidation set in for account of recent buyers and the market declined about 14 points before offerings were exhausted. At the decline, Wall street interests extended support and their buying brought about a recovery of most of the loss.

General business is very limited and liquidation has been so heavy of late that speculative sellers are cautious.

John F. Black & Co.

New York, January 30.—There is a large recently accumulated Wall street long interest in the cotton market and neither the public nor the leading spot interests seem anxious to come in and take this cotton off people who have bought it. Advices from the south tell of very poor spot demand and ship owners say that there is no demand for freight room at the cotton ports. The leading longs tried to hold the market today, but every time they neglected it for an instant it eased off. The close was barely steady, with July down 7 points and March and May 10 points lower than yesterday's close.

Liverpool is due unchanged to a point up.

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, January 30.—Cotton seed oil was firm early, on commission house buying and the strength in crude, but eased off later, under selling by refiners and local longs, induced by the easier ruling in cotton and disappointing outside demand. Closing prices were unchanged to 2 points net higher. Sales, 13,900 bales.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, January 30.—Liverpool was unexpectedly weak, due, oud cables tell us, to the long continued strain of the Turkish question. When it was reported that Adrianople would be ceded, the market momentarily improved, but closed barely steady. This weakness abroad brought a mass of selling orders from a large abitrage trader who appears to be reversing a straddle between the two markets several months ago and now being liquidated. After a quick decline of some 16 points, the market recovered, closing steady at about the opening prices, 9 points below yesterday on May. The insight movement will show bullish and it seems probable the visible supply will show sharply below last season. At the end of last year, the visible supply of American was half a million more than last year. It is expected this excess will be much reduced at the present rate of consumption and receipts.

Coffee.

New York, January 30.—Coffee futures opened barely steady at a decline of 28 points on February, which was influenced by notices issued against coffee of a description that will not be tenderable after next month. The big break in the near position unsettled the general list, which opened 8 to 11 points lower and the loss was increased 2 or 3 points during the middle of the morning by liquidation or scattering pressure. Later, prices rallied slightly on covering, closing steady, net 6 to 23 points lower. Sales, 48,000.

WHEAT ADVANCE RECEIVES CHECK

Asserted That European Buyers Give Preference to Argentine Wheat.

Chicago, January 30.—Assertions that hereafter European buyers would give preference to Argentine wheat as against cargoes from the United States and Canada took much of the snap today out of an attempt to advance the market here. Closing prices were barely steady at a gain of 1-8 to 1-8@1-4c net. Corn showed a loss of 1-4 to 1-4@3-8c, oats finished unchanged to 1-8c off, and provisions varying from 7 1-2c decline to a rise of 2 1-2c.

One of the leading houses on 'change made public what was stated to be authoritative advices from German importers that wheat shipments from North America had been placed under a heavy handicap because Argentine shippers have agreed to modified contracts that settled a controversy about weight standards. In this connection, traders took note of the fact that the Argentine crop is large and excellent, and that never before at this period of the season had so small a percentage been sold. Drought reports from India, which put strength into wheat prices during the first part of the day, seemed to lose effect when the Argentine bugbear led to extensive realizing sales. War news, reports of improved flour demand northwest and predictions of cold weather, appeared equally powerless to keep prices from slipping back.

Favorable weather and increasing receipts pulled down corn. Bearish news from Argentine and the late setback in wheat counted also in depressing prices.

Buying orders from the southwest made oats comparatively steady. Local speculators were the best sellers.

BECIN TO DRAFT CHARTER TONIGHT

Subcommittee Outlines Reforms to Be Incorporated.

Hatchet Buried by Former Antagonists in Effort to Give City Best.

The charter revisionists have lost no time in opening the municipal reform campaign in Atlanta.

A sub-committee of seven, composed of Alderman John E. McClelland, Judge John S. Candler, Wilmer L. Moore, president of the chamber of commerce; Charles T. Hopkins, attorney; A. Frank Liebman, citizen, met in the office of Mayor James G. Woodward Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, and decided on one administrative board, combined with a representative council, to be the fundamental upon which the new charter will be based.

There was no bickering during the meeting, and every member present agreed at the outset on the basis of the charter which every member is willing to support.

Councilman W. G. Humphrey, author of the Humphrey resolution, and John H. Welch, representative of the trade council, were absent.

Actual Writing Begins Tonight.

The actual writing of the charter will begin at 8 o'clock tonight, when Aldermen McClelland and Candler and Attorney Hopkins meet at the office of Judge Candler. The committee will submit fragments of the new charter to Mayor Woodward and the committee of twenty-five from day to day.

A striking feature of the new charter will be the recall which will be placed on the administrative board and council.

The charter will retain the representative and aldermanic form of government, with council as a legislative body. The following is a brief outline of the charter basis:

Outline of Charter.

Council to be one body and ten members, with the power of legislation, fixing the tax rate and making the budget.

Five members to the administrative board to have charge of the various departments, with the mayor as chairman.

All city officials to be elected by the people, the administrators from the city-at-large and one councilman from each ward.

Placing in the hands of the people the power of recalling administrators and councilmen, and attaching the referendum clause to all legislation.

To provide salaries for the administrators that will attract the best ability in the city.

Abolition of all boards with the possible exception of the board of education.

Remove Schools From Politics.

The prevailing sentiment is to provide for some sort of board to operate the schools. The regulation and adjustment of the organic laws relating to the schools will be the most important work before the revision committee.

"I feel that the committee is working along the right lines," declared Mayor Woodward, after the meeting adjourned. "The situation seems to be cleared to the extent of having eliminated all factional differences. We can all work now for the best there is to give the city."

The mayor declared that he was delighted with the progress the committee is making.

Judge John S. Candler expressed himself as well pleased with the sentiment of the committee. He favors broad reforms, but is opposed to commission government. Alderman John E. McClelland is also in favor of reforms, but is also opposed to commission government.

Charles T. Hopkins, one of the keenest municipal lawyers in Atlanta, is a commission government man. He is also optimistic over the prospect of Atlanta getting an efficient and representative charter.

To Retain Representative Government.

At the very outset of the meeting Judge Candler declared that he was against straight commission government. He stated that he was certain the people of Atlanta wanted to retain representative government, and urged a council with legislative authority.

"I am convinced that the people are against our board system," Judge Candler said, "and my experience of four years in council has convinced me that the board system is not the best."

Judge Candler frankly told the committee that he did not enter into the work of assisting to revise the charter with an idea of having all his ideals embodied in the charter.

"I expect to compromise," he said, "and I have absolutely no fear that we will not be able to agree."

The committee is agreed that there will be no trouble in getting the committee of twenty-five agreed on the charter as drafted by the smaller committee. Under a resolution adopted, the committee of three in charge of the writing of the charter will submit at the end of each session sections of the charter drafted so that Mayor Woodward and the other members of the committee can meet and discuss the various phases and expedite the general discussion.

Goes to Council, Then People.

When the charter is finally completed by the committee it will be passed up to council, and then to the legislature and then passed on to the people to be voted for adoption.

The committee was not burdened with details Thursday morning, and there is no reason for anyone to anticipate a disagreement. The board of education was discussed, and the sentiment of the committee appeared almost unanimous on a system that will positively protect the schools from politics.

The administrators—no matter whether five or seven is decided on—will probably be named merely as members of the administrative body, the board itself to assign the administrators to the departments. This will do away with the danger of an administrator building up a "political machine."

The charter will give each administrator full control over the certain department to which he is assigned, and the entire board of administrators will act as a board of appeal from any order or ruling of a department administrator. The appeal will apply to the public only, and not to the men of the department over which the administrator has charge.

Administrators Responsible.

The administrators are to be assigned as follows: Administrator of finance, administrator of health and hospitals, administrator of protection in charge of the police, fire, and possibly a division of the construction department, and the park and waterworks departments between two administrators.

The mayor of the city will be the chairman of the board of administrators.

The mayor will likely have charge of one department, probably the finance department.

Under the proposed charter outlined, the responsibility for "lost motion" in the city government can be fixed. That is one of the fundamentals of commission government.

The charter will preserve unto those officials the representative plan of government.

The committee of three hopes to have the charter completed in April.

WILSON IS QUIZZED ABOUT HIS CABINET

But the Correspondents Get No Information---He's Trying to Make Up a Team.

Trenton, N. J., January 30.—President-elect Wilson permitted himself to be questioned at great length by the correspondents today about the make-up of his cabinet, and seemingly enjoyed the efforts that were made to get information from him. The governor, however, carefully avoided any disclosures.

Asked whether any names other than that of William Jennings Bryan had been suggested for the secretaryship of state, Mr. Wilson said:

"About a half dozen."

To the inquiry as to who these men might be, Mr. Wilson reflected for a moment, but replied that he could not recall offhand, because some of the individuals were grouped under lists of names suggested for other portfolios as well.

One of the correspondents asked Mr. Wilson if he intended to appoint to his cabinet men of practical experience in public affairs, or professional men who had not been in public.

"Both sorts are under consideration," he answered, and then added with a laugh:

"But I certainly am not going to make up my cabinet of college presidents."

The governor said he had decided to follow the usual course of getting acceptances first before announcing his cabinet. He was asked whether he would make public the acceptances as they came to him.

"No," he replied, "because I'm really trying to make up a team."

He intimated that a possible declination of a single portfolio might make it necessary to redistribute the entire cabinet.

Except for the visit of Representative Carter Glass, chairman of the house sub-committee on banking and currency, the governor devoted the day to New Jersey business.

Mr. Glass gave Mr. Wilson an account of the progress of the public hearings before the banking and currency committee.

"Mr. Glass pleased me," said the governor, "by telling me that the attitude of the big bankers who appeared before the committee was in an attitude of friendly co-operation."

While talking about bank reforms, the president-elect remarked casually: "When I said in my speech at Chicago that the banking system of the country stood convicted, I thought I was saying what everybody had said before. Sometimes one's commonplaces startle the country."

Mr. Glass declared after his conference with the governor that the new monetary bills would be ready for introduction during the extra session of congress. He added that he did not know yet when conditions would clear, but he had today arranged for Sir Edmund Walker, head of the Bank of Montreal, Canada, to appear before the committee on March 13.

sions. Any diminution of Turkish authority, therefore, would transform them into centers of agitation, which would spread to the adjoining shores and create a state of unrest similar to that in Macedonia, "which has threatened and still threatens the tranquilty of Europe."

Turkey offers to abide by the decision of the powers regarding the status of the islands occupied by the allies if they have regard for the foregoing considerations and the integrity of the Dardanelles, which the note clevely contends is a question of the highest importance to Europe. In conclusion, the note says:

"The imperial government is convinced that the great powers in a spirit of justice and equity will recognize the extent of the sacrifices to which Turkey has consented and will agree that the sublime porte would be right in rejecting any further demands which might be raised by the Balkan allies."

BARON IS TRAPPED BY WIFE'S MESSAGE

Search for Him Ends at Trysting Place Where Divorce Papers Are Served.

When A. L. Baron, whose wife filed a divorce suit against him last fall, agreed over the telephone yesterday morning to meet her and talk things over at a little fruit stand on Wall street, he had no idea that there would be a third party to the interview and that the court papers which the sheriff has been trying to serve since before Christmas would be the only communication between himself and his angry spouse.

Mrs. Baron, whose initials are L. A., and who claims to be the reverse of her husband in other things, told her lawyer that he had agreed to meet her. For nearly two months deputy sheriffs have chased the man as assiduously as congressional sergeants-at-arms chased the elusive Rockefeller, and they were glad to hear that he would be at a definite place at a definite hour.

Along about 3 o'clock the woman walked up Wall street and stood looking at some fruit that an Italian had for sale. Concealed by a choice bunch of bananas stood Deputy J. W. Chambers.

For a few moments the vicinity was perfectly quiet and then a man walked up, politely took off his hat and offered his hand to the woman. Knowing that it could be no other than the man he wanted, the deputy stepped out.

"Is this Mr. Baron?" he questioned.

"That's him, that's him; serve him quick!" interrupted Mrs. Baron, as she turned and left.

"It certainly was a neat trick," was Baron's only comment, as he bade the deputy good-day.

KNIGHT IS BOUND OVER ON A LARCENY CHARGE

Only a few months after his gray and aged mother, through her touching appeals to Governor Brown, had obtained his freedom on parole, William C. Knight, convicted of blowing Randall Bros.' safe two years ago, was bound over by Recorder Broyles yesterday afternoon on a charge of larceny.

Bond was fixed at $500. Knight was arrested Tuesday night by Policemen Palmer and Gorman and Plain Clothesmen Barton and Alewine, who had routed the four car barn robbers who plundered the Ashby street barns of $700 worth of copper cable.

Knight was captured at Ashby street and the A., B. & A. railway yards, where he was found standing beside the stolen cable that had been buried in an open field. The four other men discovered with him fled and escaped.

Knight pleaded not guilty, and said he was waiting to catch a freight train for Brunswick, where he intended obtaining work. He confessed to assisting the notorious safe blower, Bill Jones, in cracking the Randall safe in 1911, and was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment. His mother, who lives at 83 Jett street, managed to free him on parole by pleading with Governor Brown. He had been out of prison only a few months.

HEISKELL WAS SENATOR FOR JUST 22 DAYS

Washington, January 30.—Senator John N. Heiskell, of Arkansas, whose successor will take office tomorrow, bade farewell this afternoon to his 22-day service as a senator.

"My successor is bearing down upon me," Senator Heiskell told his colleagues, "armed with a commission that will serve as a writ of dispossession for me. He will, in turn, serve but a short while when another will come to take his place for the long term. There is senatorial glory enough to go around if you keep it moving fast."

Senator Heiskell succeeded the late Senator Jeff Davis on January 9. His successor, W. M. Kavanaugh, who takes the oath tomorrow, will serve until March 4, when Former Representative Joseph T. Robinson comes in.

"When I came here a few days ago I had difficulty in finding my way into the senate," said Senator Heiskell, "but the Arkansas legislature had no difficulty in showing me the way out. I am leaving the senate after this short service because of circumstances over which I have no control. Lately I have been spending by time in learning what rights, privileges, prerogatives and immunities a man has who has been a member of the senate. After this service of twenty-two days I am going home to spend the rest of my life writing my reminiscences."

Senators from both sides of the chamber crowded around the young Arkansas member as he concluded his speech and conducted a hand-shaking bee that for a time disturbed the business of the senate.

STEADY JUMPS IN OIL PRICES

Nearly Every Day the Price Is Lifted Seven Cents a Barrel.

Pittsburg, January 30.—The fourth successive advance in crude oils was recorded when the South Penn Oil company announced its prices at the opening of business today. As on every other day this week the price was lifted 7 cents a barrel, bringing Pennsylvania crude to $2.33 and other grades to the following prices:

Mercer black, Corning and Newcastle, $1.86; Cabell, $1.93; Somerset, $1.32.

There was no change in Ragland from 70 cents.

When the Standard Oil company, of New Jersey, was dissolved by order of the federal supreme court last year a number of smaller companies were organized in this territory and competition for crude oil for the new refineries has become pronounced.

For eighteen months preceding the dissolution of the Standard, which took place December 15, 1911, Pennsylvania crude had been quoted at $1.30 a barrel. Eleven days afterward the price was advanced 5 cents and within a month producers were receiving $1.50 a barrel for oil. Five cents more was added on April 19, 1912, and another 5 cents added June 5. From then until October 29 there was no change. The policy of tacking on 5 cents to the price was continued until December 14, when the dream of the oil producer was realized on the announcement that $2 oil had arrived. Another advance of 5 cents was recorded on January 6 and on January 27 7 cents was tacked on. From that time until this morning there have been daily advances of 7 cents and oil men here were today predicting $2.50 oil by mid-summer, and $3 oil before the end of the year.

While it is relaized by those closely following runs and shipments as well as production, that there is a scarcity of oil, the movement this week has been so unusual that many persons feel something more than the legitimate commercial demand underlies it.

PLOT TO ROB RUSSIA IS DENIED BY PIERCE

Washington, January 30.—H. H. D. Pierce, formerly assistant secretary of state, in a letter today to Representative Rothermen, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the house committee, which investigated the fur seal conditions of the Pribilof islands, asked for a hearing by the committee on a phase of its report which charged him with combining with others to defraud the Russian government.

"I am amazed as well as socked," wrote Mr. Pierce, "to find that your committee has caused to be spread broadcast throughout the country the grave charge that I corresponded, combined and agreed' with one Isaac Liebes and Charles H. Townsend to defraud the Russian government of a large sum of money while acting on behalf of my own government in 1900 and 1901 in an arbitration before a tribunal at The Hague. Those who know me will need no assurance that such a charge is utterly false."

Mr. Pierce asked the chairman to send him all the testimony relating to his connection with the matter and for a hearing that he might satisfy the committee of "the utter lack of any foundation for alleging any wrong doing on my part.'

The committee charged that Mr. Pierce aided in preparing and collecting a fraudulent claim for damages for seizure by the Russian government o fthe schooner "James Hamilton Lewis," outfitted for "unlawful killing of fur seals."

ROBIN'S PICTURE TAKEN FOR ROQUE'S GALLERY

New York, January 30.—Joseph G. Robin, erstwhile high financier, failed today to escape the rogue's gallery camera man at police headquarters, although Joseph B. Reichman, William J. Cummins and Charles H. Hyde, who were convicted largely on Robin's testimony, were spared the ordeal. Handcuffed to "Bull" Jennings, a notorious criminal, Robin was taken to police headquarters, photographed, measured and "finger printed."

He was then sent away to begin his prison term of one year for bank wrecking.

Police Commissioner Waldo explained, after the failure to photograph Reichman, Cummins and Hyde had been brought out by an investigating committee, that the prisoners had never been in the custody of the police, but were held by the district attorney's office.

After Robin spent a few minutes in the penitentiary he was brought before Supreme Court Justice Goff on a writ of habeas corpus, attacking the jurisdiction of the court, which sentenced him, and asserting that he entered his plea of guilty under a misapprehension.

Robin spent twenty-two months in jail. He was of such assistance in the trials of Reichman, Cummins and Hyde that the district attorney asked for leniency in his behalf.

PEACHTREE ROAD PARK LOTS IN DEMAND

Georgia Land and Investment Company's New Subdivision, "Out Peachtree," in the Brookhaven District, Proves Popular.

Superb Location—Low Prices Easy Terms

PEACHTRE ROAD PARK is the name of a new subdivision, owned by Georgia Land and Investment Co., 60½ North Broad street, Atlanta, Ga., which is located just off PEACHTREE ROAD, in the Brookhaven district. Lots in this new subdivision are being sold at $275 to $475 each upon very liberal terms; i.e., a small cash payment and $10 per month. Free taxes are guaranteed each purchaser until deeds have been issued and delivered. Most of the lots are elevated and covered with beautiful shade trees. It is said the car line will be extended in the near future out PEACHTREE ROAD to the SILVER LAKE PROPERTIES, where the OGLETHORPE UNIVERSITY site is located; this will mean a car line in front of PEACHTREE ROAD PARK. At the present time the car line terminates a short distance this side. In view of the big improvements in this section making the location ideal for residences, the ridiculously low price at which these lots are offered there is no better investment for the home-seeker and investor than PEACHTREE ROAD PARK LOTS.

The GEORGIA LAND AND INVESTMENT CO. invites interested parties to call at its office, 60½ North Broad street, for descriptive literature, or to phone them, Ivy 5522, and make an engagement to go out and personally inspect the property.

MRS. HUFFMAN FOUND AFTER LONG SEARCH

Rome, Ga., January 30.—(Special.)—Mrs. W. W. Huffman, wife of a sergeant of the Rome police force, who has been missing since January 11, has been discovered at the home of Mrs. Crow, not far from her own residence. She has been in hiding for more than two weeks, and so successfully evaded those searching for her that it was feared she had been killed or had committed suicide.

Mrs. Huffman's mind has been affected for some time by ill-health, and for a time she was confined in the state sanitarium at Milledgeville, but had apparently recovered. Shortly after her arrival home she showed signs of a return of her affliction. She has been sent back to the state sanitarium for further treatment.

CULEBRA CUT SLIDES DELAY CANAL PROGRESS

Washington, January 30.—Recent slides of earth and rock into the Culebra cut will necessitate great activity if the Panama canal is to be opened before the end of the present calendar year, as has been predicted by Colonel Goethals. More than 500,000 yards of earth and rock have fallen into this cut this month, and engineers fear that another impending break at Purple hill will add not less than 1,000,000 yards.

For a long time the notorious Cucuracha slide, on the east bank of the canal, has been quiet, but on the afternoon of January 16 the earth movement began so rapidly as to carry away some of the dirt cars and completely covered all of the railroad tracks in the canal except one. Purple hill is holding back a tremendous amount of earth, slowly moving toward the cut, but the hill is showing signs of weakness, and should it break away the canal prism would be almost filled at that point.

SAYS HE NEVER HEARD OF CLARENCE DARROW

Los Angeles, Cal., January 30.—A resident of this county who never heard of Clarence S. Darrow, and to whom the name of McNamara was unfamiliar, was found today. He is D. S. Dresbach, a dairyman, called as a veniremen in the lawyer's second trial. He admitted a vague recollection of having heard of the destruction of the Los Angeles Times building by explosion.

"My wife reads the newspapers and tells me about the murders and automobile accidents," said Dresbach. "Before I came here this morning I asked her about this case, and she said she did not know anything about it."

The defense used a peremptory challenge to remove Dresbach from the jury box.

The jury was completed late today. As in the first trial, it consists of thirteen men, the odd member sitting in readiness to take the seat of any juryman who may become incapacitated.

SOCIAL ARBITER BOWS TO WASHINGTON POLICE

Washington, January 30.—Mrs. John B. Henderson, one of the social arbiters of the capital, and wife of a former senator, has pacified the local authorities by agreeing to plant a new tree in place of one she cut down in violation of an ordinance, and for which she was threatened with arrest. Mrs. Henderson set society by the ears the other night when she held a lantern while two workmen chopped down the tree which obstructed the view of Sixteenth street—the avenue of presidents—from her home, Henderson Castle.

Today, after some reflection, the local authorities quashed a warrant they had issued for the society leader's arrest, and prepared to prosecute the laborers who did the work under Mrs. Henderson's direction. To save the men from prosecution she proposed to replace the tree.
